Maryland Holstein Is All-American Supreme

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 6-year-old Holstein cow owned by Gay Ridge and Kingstead Farm of Ijamsville, Md., was named supreme champion of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show late last week at the state Farm Show complex.

The All-American Dairy Show is the premier dairy cattle show in Pennsylvania. It is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association in cooperation with the state Department of Agriculture and the Farm Show commission.

There were 2,000 entries representing breeders' animals from 20 states, and four of the six breeds held their national shows in conjunction with the All-American.

"C Rossland Astro Kat" was named supreme champion over the top cows shown from the six breeds recognized in the annual show. She is owned by Donald and Mary Wilcom, sons Grey and Danny, and Mary Douglas, Jane, Irving and Harold King.

According to records, Astro Kat had a 4-year-old record of 24,240

Milk Hold On Hold

A national milk withholding that was to take place Oct. 1 has been indefinetly postponed, but is not cancelled, according to organizers.

Roger Hess, an organizer of the milk withholding effort in Pennsylvania, said that while a large number of dairymen were ready to withhold their milk, there was not enough of a committment to go through with the action.

The plan is not over, however. If prices, which have been slowly rising, once again plummet, and additional producer support is mustered, a new withholding date will be announced.

Effective After Oct. 1, 1992.

DHIA Decides To Offer Service To Members Only

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — In a move to clarify its position well ahead of the deadline, the board of directors of the Pennsylvania DHIA voted to provide services to members only after October 1, 1992.

The association is in the latter stages of a long effort to standardize milk component testing and field services by joining all the county associations under a statewide unbrella.

Responsibility and liability for the hiring of supervisors and providing official records will then lie with the state association. Under the plan, individual dairy farmers become direct members of the state association and the county boards become advisory councils and liaisons between the state and local districts.

The motion that was passed here at their regular board meeting Thursday morning reads as follows:

"As of October 1, 1992, Pennsylvania DHIA will provide services to direct members only. Individual dairymen may apply for direct membership. Supervisor employees may apply to become

Hazlett Named To Livestock Hall Of Fame

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — At the opening ceremonies of KILE here in the small arena of the Farm Show Complex, Vernon E. Hazlett, Penn State professor, was named to the Livestock Hall of Fame for his contributions to the industry in training and education of leaders and future leaders.

Hazlett is know for his work with students "at the barn" and for developing swine bloodlines that have kept Penn State in the limelight at the national shows and production evaluation contests.

In addition, he has been active with 4-H and FFA programs and for many years he was the instructor for a large part of each short course held in alternate years at Penn state for swine producers. By a conservative estimate, he provided in excess of 800 people with a fundamental knowledge of good swine production.

A member of the faculty at Penn State for more than 30 years, Hazlett has guided Penn State's swine breeding and production program that included two national Yorkshire boars at the Yorkshire Type

In his position as director of cooperative business education programs, Doran is responsible for guiding long-term programs such as the Summer Institute for Teens, Young Cooperative Leaders conferences, Pennsylvania Cooperative Director's Schools, cooperative employee training programs, and the recent Ag Horizons programs for extension personnel and teachers of agriculture.

He has been the Penn State liaison with the statewide cooperative trade association, formerly known as the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC),

National Egg Market

Wednesday, October 2, 1991

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: The market tone was mostly steady with an underlying cautious trade sentiment. Demand ran the entire gamut from slow to good but was expected to improve in most quarters as first of month monies coupled with attractive retail promotions stimulated consumer buying interest. Supplies were usually in a well balanced position to satisfy dealer needs. Further processors were struggling as asking prices rose for breaking stock and they attempted to raise finished product prices.

OPINION

4-H For Everyone

At the Lampeter Fair hog show last week, Henry Gruber, well-known livestock judge, said he wished every young person in America would have the learning experience afforded by caring for and showing a livestock project.

Of course, not every family has the facilities or the resources to accommodate a large animal youth project. But because of the extensive 4-H programs, many youths do have a project with the corresponding opportunity to learn by doing.

From photography to fashion design to market lambs to market analysis, 4-H has something for everyone. Traditional projects include agriculture and food-related themes. Other 4-H projects are concerned with leadership, citizenship, science technology, and career direction.

"We have always known that 4-H makes a difference in the lives of young people," said Joy Sparks, University of Delaware area 4-H agent. "Now this has been documented."

Sparks says children who participate in 4-H and other youth groups get better grades, learn life skills that help them become more productive adults, and tend to take on more leadership roles as children and as adults.

Community involvement and citizenship programs are an important aspect of 4-H. One 4-H youth has become involved in visiting a nursing home and a children's hospital. Her long-term efforts won her a $1,500 college scholarship as part of the National 4-H awards program.

4-H'ers learn about food safety and kitchen cleanliness. And maybe more important, in their clubs, they feel accepted. Sure there is peer pressure, but it's a positive type of pressure that encourages them to do the right things.

4-H is not just for farm youths anymore. And as National 4-H Week is celebrated this week, it becomes clear that Henry Gruber's wish for all youth has the possibility to be fulfilled through the 4-H clubs across the country.

To Manage Barnyards

Barnyards are often the most visible part of a farm. A well-managed barnyard will help you present a positive image for your farm.

This will help you to minimize complaints from neighbors. Jeff Stoltzfus, extension project associate, offers the following suggestions to improve the appearance of barnyards:

- Direct manure and runoff to a manure storage area.
- Direct clean water away from the barnyard.
- Use rain gutters to direct roof runoff away from barnyards.
- Terraces upslope of the buildings will direct runoff water around barnyards.
- If water needs to leave the barnyard area, allow it to pass through a grass filter strip before it reaches a stream, road ditch, or other waterway.

By managing barnyards, you will help improve water quality and prevent some animal diseases while building good community relations.

To Be Aware Of Toxic Plants

Fall is the time of year to be alert to poisonous plants. With the coming of frost, remember not to graze sorghum-sudangrass crosses and sudangrass for several days after a frost.

Better yet, wait one week and ensile it, and let it ferment about four weeks before feeding.

Also, some ornamental plants and animals do not mix. Some ornamental plants, such as yew bushes, will kill animals when eaten by them. Therefore, homeowners and farmers should not toss ornamental clippings into pastures and fields.

Also, keep fences well maintained and keep gates closed to prevent animals from gaining access to poisonous ornamentals.

To Prevent Farm And Home Fires

Fire is both friend and foe. We can't live without it, but its destructive power is a threat we must control.

Some ways you may reduce the risk of fire are:

- Regularly inspect your house and buildings for fire hazards. Check your electrical systems, fuel storage, and heaters.
- Remove trash, stacks of papers, and other unneeded combustibles that could feed a fire.
- Read and follow the directions with portable heaters.
- Be prepared for fire should it strike. Have operating smoke detectors and fire extinguishers.
- Keep matches and lighters out of children's reach.

To Salute 4-H

Next week is National 4-H Week. We salute all the 4-H members and the adult volunteers for their many accomplishments.

If you are not currently involved in 4-H, I would encourage you to contact your local extension office to learn more about this great youth program.

4-H is a constantly changing program designed to meet the needs of today's youth. I am sure you will love the flexibility of 4-H to address local community and parent's concerns.

4-H has something for everyone. Call now and become a part of your land grant university's youth program!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PICK UP THE PHONE: IT'S FOR YOU!
October 6, 1991

Background Scripture: Acts 15:36 through 16:23.

Devotional Reading: Colosians 1:3-14.

If I had been chairperson of the search committee to hire someone to minister to the gentiles, Paul would never have become an apostle. Not because of what Paul had been — a persecutor of Christians — but because of what Paul was at the time: a difficult, stubborn, sometimes quarrelsome man who had already demonstrated that he was not a "team player."

Fortunately, I had nothing to do with hiring Paul; I say "fortunately" because God knew what he was doing when he called Paul to do his bidding and, no matter how logical my judgment may have been, it would have been the wrong decision. Paul was not hired to be "Christian Personality of the Year," but an apostle for God. Despite this man's difficult and even exasperating personality, God needed him.

That is one of the first things we need to know about God's calling: sometimes God calls some of what you and I would judge to be "the least likely people." It would be wonderful if all of God's workers had even dispositions and pleasing personalities, but they, don't. Sometimes the most gifted people are not very personable. But God still needs their gifts for his work. The call comes to people who seem unlikely candidates for God's work — including you and me! So we are not St. Francis of Assassi reincarnate! That doesn't mean that God doesn't have work for us to do.

GOD FORBID!

I wish Luke had been more explicit in telling us how they were "forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia" and in what way "the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them" to go into Bithynia. ("Holy Spirit" and "Spirit of Jesus" are used interchangeably by Paul) Does that mean that they heard a heavenly voice or saw a vision? Perhaps, as you and I do, they found themselves blocked whenever they considered evangelizing in the province of Asia and when they wanted to enter Bithynia. Maybe, after experien- cing various obstacles to these decisions, they concluded that the obstacles were simply God saying "No" to these particular plans. Are there not times in our lives when God closes a door on our plans? Maybe the only difference is that Paul and Timothy recognized God's hand in their obstacles, whereas you and I, not looking for God's revelation, experience it but don't recognize it.

When Paul dreamed his nigh vision of the Macedonian man pleasing for him to "Come over to Macedonia and help us," he also recognized this as a call from God. Would you be likely to make an important decision on the basis of a dream? Or would you be likely to shrug it off with "it was just a dream"? That's something else we must understand about God's call, the problem is not that he fails to communicate with us, but that we don't recognize it when he does.

Your Farm Credit Banker. Nobody Knows The Field Better.

Sure, you'll find Farm Credit bankers all buttoned up, ready to talk short- or long-term loans, mortgages and sophisticated lines of credit.

But underneath the shirt and tie, you'll find the one thing the other banks don't offer. A fellow farmer.

Most Farm Credit loan officers were born and raised on farms and got their college degrees from ag schools. Nearly all of them grew up with 4-H and the Future Farmers of America.

And, if that's not enough, every single one of our loan officers goes through the toughest ag lending training program in America.

That means when you talk to a Farm Credit loan officer about any kind of ag loan, you won't have to waste your time translating to someone who's book smart but farm foolish.

What's more, because Farm Credit loan officers understand farming as well as they understand finances, they're not only smarter, they're faster. After all, they have the same loan closing authority as many local bank presidents.

So when you need competitive rates or creative options, see your local Farm Credit banker. Because nobody knows the field better.

SRBC Considers Water-Use Regulations

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The final outcome of proposed regulations of agricultural water-use in the Susquehanna River basin won't be decided for some time, but agriculturalists let it be known they don't want to be a scapegoat or singled out to foot the bill for managing water use in the basin.

During a public hearing held Wednesday in the auditorium of the state Game Commission headquarters in Harrisburg, the majority, of about 65 people representing either themselves, agricultural and rural organizations, or rural constituencies, testified that they opposed filing fees for landowners who use water, and requested an extension to at least 120 days total to calculate averages, for the use of water for irrigation or animal husbandry without reprise from the state.

The Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC) is an organization charged with the management of water resources within the Susquehanna River watershed, which extends from two New York counties south through central Pennsylvania.

The majority of the agricultural users of water are located in the southern counties of Pennsylvania, but agricultural water use occurs at every agricultural production facility.

According to Robert Bielo, executive director, the proposed project review fee schedule affects agricultural water use in two ways: one is those operations which use more than an average of 20,000 gallons per day for less then 90 days a year, with a one-time review fee of $250 for intermittent consumptive use, which would be exempt from an annual monitoring fee; and the second involves consumptive use of water for animal husbandry for the same amount of time.

As drafted the users would be subject to a one-time fee based on the amount of water used and would not be exempted from the annual monitoring fee.

However, during the course of the hearing, all members said that the proposal was far from definite and that all comments made during the hearing would be reviewed, probably at the Nov. 14 meeting of the commission.

Also, the members said that they will continue to receive written testimony concerning the implementation of water use regulations until Oct. 16. The address is: Susquehanna River Basin Commission, 1721 North Front St., Harrisburg, Pa., 17102.

Those who spoke, all of whom were against at least some aspect of the current recommendations, suggested an extension of the number of days by which the average daily use were to be calculated from 90 days to a minimum of 120 days. Potatoe growers requested more days, because they said that potatoes, which are calculated to require at least 20,000 gallons per day per less than 5 acres of crop, would automatically put them over the limit.

Furthermore, the commission's estimated amount of water used per animal population was questioned. The commission used 20,000 gallons per day to equate with the water requirements of 870 dairy cattle, 5,000 hogs and 250,000 hens.

And while the commission said that there were few dairy cattle or hog producers currently exceeding that amount, they did not offer a number of poultry operators within the state who might be using enough water to take them above the threshold level of an average 20,000 gallons per day per 90 days.

Further research and documentation as to the amount of water acutally used to raise such animals was requested by the representatives of agriculture who attended the hearing, because the figures presented did not coincide with reported amounts currently used in operations which obstensibly would be exempt.

Testimony also was presented which questioned the commission's attention toward agriculture. It was said that, before the large urban sprawl and residential housing boom affected the southern county region, water use had not been a problem and that there were more farms at the time.

It was questioned several times why a farm of 80 acres could potentially be forced pay fees for using water when those same 80 acres could be converted into numerous single family dwellings and overall consume at least twice as much water per acre and not pay any money to the commission or answer for water use.

Boyd Sweeps Grand At New Holland Swine Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — It looked easy enough — take your two best hogs and get your sister to show the other one. After all, she needs the experience.

So Gerald Boyd followed through with his plan on Tuesday night at the New Holland Farm Show market swine competition, and it worked.

The 13-year-old Ephrata Junior High School student, who's been showing for two years, paraded a 246-pound Hampshire/York/Duroc gilt. All the while, sister Sarah, 10, had a chance to share in the honors by patting around the 252-pound Hamsphire-boar and York-sow bred gilt (both raised by uncles Rick and Steve Strauss).

The Boyds collectively secured the champion first place and swept the championships in the heavyweight class. They said they'll be showing at the Keystone International Livestock Show this week and the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Judge Greg Musser told the exhibitors and audience that the marketplace is looking for a uniform set of hogs in terms of muscling and leanness. "You buy pork chops, you want some meat in them . . . something you can really sink your teeth into," Musser said. "You want a pork that is really lean. Nobody wants to eat fat. I know I don't."

Kenton Good, 19, a Lancaster Mennonite graduate, attributes the senior showman championship to 10 years of showing. Kenton had heavy competition from younger brother, Kurt, 18, who kept close behind at second place.

Musser emphasized to the exhibitors that the main priority in the showmanship contest is to give him "a view that I want," he said. As for moving the hog along with a whip or cane, showmen must "tap the hog in the front end, definitely not in the hamp, especially with the canes." Exhibitors should try to develop a sixth sense of where the hog is in relation to the judge, and keep the animal moving in front of the judge.

Musser cautioned the young exhibitors not to "beat the pigs and make a lot of noise. Make sure you have that under control."

DON'T OPERATE IN THE RED !

HELP YOUR FARM OPERATE IN THE BLACK !

The Big Dutchman Champion chain feed trough allows 3 1/4" wide feed area in front of the cage. The grind auger only 1 1/4". At 9 birds in a 24" cage, this means that Big Dutchman gives each bird 8 2/3 square inches of feed area, the drag auger only a mere 3 1/3.

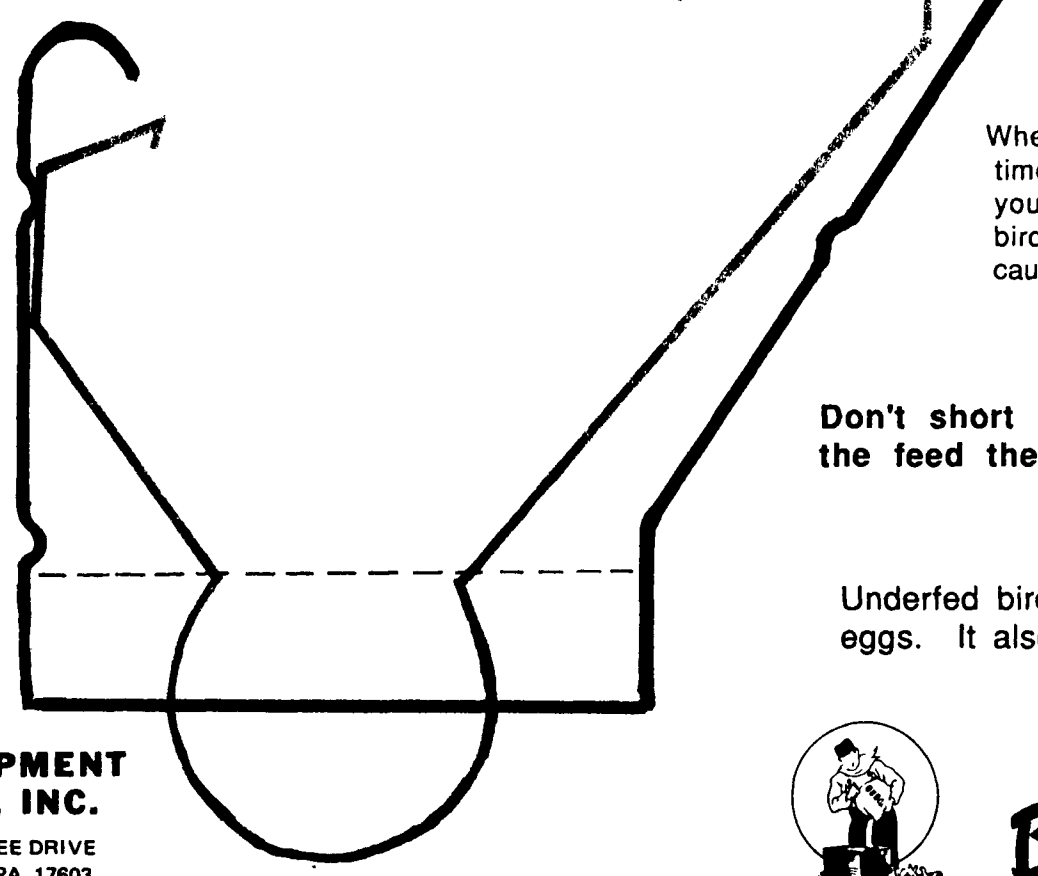
The superior design of the Big Dutchman trough reduces spillage because of the extra high lip and curl.
The drag auger trough wastes feed.

The increased feed space in the Big Dutchman trough allows us to run the feeder as few as 3 times per day while the limited feed space of the auger trough forces the grower to run the feeders at least 8 times daily.

Big Dutchman has over 2 1/2 times more feed space per bird

When you increase the number of times the feeder has to be run, you also increase stress on the birds and movement in the cage causing excess damaged eggs.

Most local producers now realize the value of the chain feeder over the grind auger.



Don't short change your birds of the feed they need for Production !

Underfed birds means less large eggs. It also means less profits.

USDA-DHIA Sire, Cow Evaluations

LAWRENCE W. SPECHT
PSU Dairy Specialist

The July 1991 USDA-DHIA genetic evaluations for sires and cows are available.

Dairymen will receive information on their own animals via the DHIA cow PTA reports. Owners of sires have already received the bull evaluations. The information is also available through the ARIS option for DHIA herdowners.

Genetic progress continues to accelerate through the widespread use of the active AI sires and the elite cows of each breed. The active AI sire report contains information on the following group of sires.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. ARIS QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

ARIS allows dairymen and their authorized veterinarians and nutritional consultants to access individual DHIA herd records from a personal computer to the main computer in State College. Call the State DHIA office number listed in the FOCUS column head to learn more about how you can use this unique DHIA service to increase the profitability of your herd and the DHIA records you produce.

Q: I have a Macintosh computer. Can I use ARIS?

A: Yes. Many Penn State extension agents, and a dairyman use ARIS with their Macs. Although, using a Mac to access ARIS can be less efficient than using an IBM. ARIS is an IBM program, and the ARIS software can only be used with IBM compatible computers. MacTerminal and Tin Can are the communications packages currently used for the Mac. With MacTerminal, users can "cut" data to print or "paste" into Word or Excel. With a program like Tin Can, ARIS data can be downloaded in a fashion similar to IBM. Though we are limited, DHIA provides as much support as possible for an ARIS user with a Macintosh.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

Pennsylvania Holds Invitational Judging Contest

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania hosted the All-American Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest as a part of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

The judging contest involved a total of 39 competing teams in three divisions: Intercollegiate, 4-H, and FFA. The Intercollegiate division involved 18 teams of four persons each from schools around the country, with California Polytechnic Institute being the most distant team represented.

To be eligible for the competition, schools must offer 4-year programs in agriculture. Pennsylvania was represented by two schools, Penn State University and Delaware Valley College.

Fourteen 4-H teams were included in the competition, along with seven FFA teams. The 4-H and FFA teams were chosen as representatives from earlier judging events in their home states.

The contest was a test of teams' judging ability of five major breeds: Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein, and Jersey. Each breed included two classes, cow and heifer, for a total of 10 classes.

The teams had 1½ minutes to give the reasons for their decisions on each class of cattle. Intercollegiate teams presented five reasons, 4-H teams gave four reasons, and FFA teams presented two reasons.

The judging event was a matter of great pride for the teams involved. Besides testing their judging ability, the event enabled participants to sharpen their public speaking and leadership skills.

The events also featured awards that recognized individuals and teams, and premiums for the teams to help defray expenses. A welcome trend also included scholarships, such as the $350 scholarship awarded to the first place individual judge in 4-H Guernseys.

All-American Sales Provide Bargains

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Narvon-Valley Champ Garland, an Ayrshire born Dec. 25, 1987 on Heather Becker's farm in Narvon, sold for a high bid of $2,000 at the Pennsylvania Elite Ayrshire Sale.

The Jersey breed sale was headed by "Vantage Lester Pamper," a heifer which Vantage Jerseys, of Fredonia, sold to David Allen, of Wisconsin, for $5,500.

Both sales were part of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, the premiere autumn dairy classic in North America, held at the State Farm Show Complex from Sept. 23 through Sept. 26.

Narvon-Valley C. G., purchased by Karen Hambrick of Peach Bottom, was one of 26 Ayrshires offered at the sale.

Auctioneer Wayne E. Weaver of Waymart, was the sale manager. Earl Keefer, secretary-treasurer of the PA Ayrshire Breeder's Association, was the sale clerk. Earl said that two years ago, an Ayrshire sold here went for $3,500.

Buyers at this year's show got some fine bargains, according to attendants and both buyers and sellers said they are already looking forward to next year's event.

In the Jersey sale, 43 animals averaged $1,621 for a total of $69,700. Also, another notable of the sale was the purchase of a choice bull from embryos sired by Highland Duncan Lester, of the breed's top sires. The choice pick of Lester offspring was bought by TPI Sires syndicate of Australia for $6,500.

"I was, like, one of the oldest in the class," she said.

Twenty-two exhibitors showed a total of 51 hogs at the four-hour show. Following is a list of show placings.

Water-Use Regulations

Commission members acknowleged a lack of accurate information as to what kinds of water uses were being done within the basin and said that the program, whether it dropped the fees or not, would help create a data base for the commission to use for better management.

But Bielo said that the commission was powerless to act toward individual home owners, no matter what the population density or demand on an immediate water table because they could legally only operate against a single user, not a conglomerate of similar use operations within the same watershed.

The rationale for this was questioned several times.

Other questions asked included the definition of "consumptive" water uses.

Bielo explained that water was considered consumed if it were effectively removed from within a specific body of water flow.

For example, taking water from a stream and using it to quench the thirst of livestock means that a portion of that water is put into the atmosphere or lost through the animals' breathing, cooling and waste elimination processes, even though it may be within the same proximity, the water has been effectively changed from being a usable form in the initial water source, thereby creating a deficiency in available water.

Furthermore, the amount of water used by plants and animals which goes into the atmosphere is not frequently recycled within the same watershed, but, for the most part, passes onto the next watershed, depending on prevailing winds.

Although the regulation proposal discussed would impact a number of agricultural operations, the reality of those affects probably will not occur, according to Bielo. He said that the commission, through testimony, was learning that water use is more than previously thought.

Bielo also said that, since agriculture interests in water uses were high, but not as high as residential, and residential homes were not being asked to foot the bill for management of water within the watershed, some rethinking might be in order.

Poultry, Egg Producers Contribute To Inexpensive Food Supply

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — America's farmers have come under siege from "demagogues" seeking to downgrade the country's food supply system.

Earl Butz, former U.S. secretary of agriculture and dean emeritus of agriculture from Purdue University, spoke to about 125 poultry and egg industry representatives on the final day of the combined trade show and conference last week.

Butz said that all of America has prospered from the advances in agriculture in the last 50 years. Where once it took 30 minutes of manpower to get a bushel of corn, it now takes about 30 seconds.

And the cost of food production is so low that the average American only spends about 12 percent of the take-home pay on food.

The poultry and egg industries have played a large part in that development, which they should be proud of, according to Butz.

Recently, however, the industries have come under attack, said Butz. "We're fair game for the demagogues that attack our food system."

Butz said, "TV now runs the country, you see. And the name of the game is to get a bite on that, and one of the ways to get a bite is to get a headline that you're endangering your food supply."

Butz said he remembers eating an apple and finding a worm in it. But with the present technology to control pests, apples are generally worm-free, which he said he prefers.

"They attack us because we use chemicals," he said. "They attack us because we use herbicides, insecticides, fungicides, all kind of 'cides," said Butz.

But Butz cautioned the representatives that, because of the technology and the knowledge gained, food is more safe than ever before and there is a lot more of it.

And because of the changes for the better in farming and food production, other benefits have also be enjoyed by Americans, including better housing, transportation, and other vital aspects of life.

Butz said that when he was younger, "We didn't have five rooms and a bath. We had four rooms and a path, where I grew up."

In the past, a gold medal went to a farmer who could harvest more than 50 bushels an acre. On the same ground, now, 150 bushels per acre are possible.

In the old days, according to Butz, when the field was plowed, they turned it many times over. "We plowed it, we disced it, spring-toothed harrow and a spike-toothed harrow, and we planted it — that's five times over, and I haven't seen a sprig of corn yet. We cultivated it — lengthwise, crosswise, lengthwise, crosswise . . . and no ear of corn to show."

But changing technology and improvements in farm techniques have made producing food less expensive. "I'm proud of the part I played in it and I want you to be proud of the part you played in it," he said. "Let's get the story out that we've got this tremendously economical, healthy, nutritious food supply."

An apple in hand, Earl Butz, former U.S. secretary of agriculture, spoke to poultry and egg producers last week about the vital part they played in producing an inexpensive, safe supply of food.

Conferences. Along with many other champions, his credits include two grand champion carcasses in the Keystone International Swine Performance Evaluation Program.

Vern Hazlett has made major contributions to the livestock industry of Pennsylvania and the nation through his education of "young and old." His constructive breeding programs have produced hogs of superior genetics and have been disseminated throughout Pennsylvania and the national swine population.

In the youth awards, Christopher Hawn received the FFA Outstanding Boy Award. Mandy Hilbert was the female recipient of the FFA Livestock Award.

Brian Stairs and Karrie Dunmire were named the 4-H stock persons of the year.

Hawn is the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hawn, Gettysburg. He is active in leadership with his local chapter, the Eastern Pennsylvania Leadership Conference and the Conservation District. He was named outstanding chapter freshman, outstanding senior, and received the Keystone Farmer Award.

Hawn will represent the State FFA program as one of four finalists for the National Sheep Production Proficiency awards.

Hilbert is the 17-year-old daughter of Harry and maryJane Hilbert, Littlestown. She has represented Pennsylvania FFA to the National Institute for Cooperative Education. She was a state finalist in public speaking and received the State FFA Keystone Degree. She is the Adams County Beef Producers Queen for 1991-1992.

She has been her local chapter president for three years.

Stairs is the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Stairs, Acme. He is a nine-year member of Slickville Ag Club and has taken projects in sheep, market lambs, dairy and soil conservation. He has held local club offices and is a teen leader.

Stairs has shown the grand champion market lamb and supreme champion breeding ewe and ram at his local fairs. He will graduate from Mount Pleasant Area High School and attend Penn State at University Park.

Salmonella An Issue All Producers Must Face

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Egg producers, distributors, retailers, and handlers are slowly getting salmonella enteritidis (SE) under control, but remain "under the microscope" of Centers for Disease Control.

And while there are only 29 verified outbreaks of SE (six egg-related)in 1991 (or one case per 225,000 eggs consumed), producers and distributors at all levels must keep an eye on this difficult and costly problem.

Reports continue to indicate that reported cases of SE stem from improper handling of the eggs from producer to kitchen table, and experts warn that the industry cannot completely remove SE, only control it.

"Eggs were supposed to be perfect," said Dr. Cathy McCharen, director of the Egg Nutrition Center. "They were supposed to be so safe. We told consumers and the food services for years they're a perfect package, that they have a sterile interior and the shell is sanitized."

Eggs mishandled

"But as time went on, and more outbreaks occurred, I think we learned that eggs were often terribly mishandled," said McCharen, "both by the user, the food service quantity food users, and to that user, there were opportunities for bacteria to become a problem."

McCharen spoke on a special SE panel last week at the Northeast Poultry and Egg Conference. The panel discussed what SE will continue to mean to producers and egg handlers.

According to McCharen, food safety has become a prominent concern of the FDA, which regulates the egg industry, and an issue all involved must consider.

While the poultry industry is regulated by USDA, egg producers and handlers are treated differently. They must learn to understand how to accept the differences and work within the system and reduce the risks of spreading SE.

Role of FDA

"You have to realize that the role of FDA is quite different than the role of USDA," she said. "Their legislative authority is different."

The FDA can still take steps to recall products and or develop reg-

The salmonella enteritidis panel at last week's poultry and egg conference in Lancaster was moderated by Dr. David Kradel, far left, director of veterinary health at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Continuing from left, Dr. Robert Eckroade, associate professor, University of Pennsylvania and director of the New Bolton Diagnostic Laboratory; Dr. Cathy McCharen, director, Egg Nutrition Center; and Dr. Lonnie J. King, USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Booths were set up for the capacity crowd at the trade show portion of the Northeast Poultry and Egg Show last week in Lancaster.

Ag Department Reorganizes, Begins Hiring

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state Department of Agriculture (PDA) underwent a reorganization Tuesday which filled the full complement of three deputy secretaries and opened the process of filling 30 jobs left vacant by the budget deficit.

According to Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff, those who work with or through the department probably will not be immediately aware of any difference in service because of the reorganization, but "it will enable the department to get up to full running speed again," he said.

The department has been shy one deputy secretary since Jan. 1 when Steven Crawford left that job to work for Rep. Kenneth Cole, D-Orrtanna.

Cole is chairman of the House Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee and Crawford is currently the committee's executive director.

Of the three deputy secretary positions, one oversees regulatory programs, the other is administrative and the third is for economic and market development.

Prior to the reorganization, Fred King had been the deputy secretary for administration. According to Wolff, "Fred King expressed — a month or so ago — a desire to take advantage of the early retirement program."

King will be acting director of PDA's Bureau of Markets until retirement next year.

According to Wolff, the catalyst for the recent change of executive staff was two-fold — the budget and King's retirement announcement.

"Since the budget passed and the early retirement opportunity for Fred came about, that gave me the opportunity to change the executive staff," Wolff said.

Replacing King Tuesday was Charles Kline, who has been director of the State Farm Products Show Commission for the past three years.

In his tenure as Farm Show director, Kline oversaw a number of activities and improvements including the renovation of the Farm Show building and changes within the layout and operation of the annual Farm Show event.

Neal Buss, who had been deputy secretary for regulatory programs has been switched to deputy secretary for market and agricultural development. That is the position Crawford held.

Replacing Buss in the regulatory position is Walter Peechatka, who had been director of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

As director of the plant bureau, Peechatka was responsible for a variety of regulatory aspects.

According to the bureau's mission statement, Peechatka was responsible for protecting the state's agricultural industry from destructive plant pests and diseases and consumers from low quality plants and plant materials.

He also oversaw the regulation of content, labeling and sales of feeds, fertilizers, soil conditioners and seeds, inspecting greenhouses and administering the often-praised pesticide program by which applicators are tested and licensed.

Crawford said Tuesday that he's "sorry" he left the department shorthanded for most of the year, but is glad that Secretary Wolff has been able to once again get a full executive staff.

"I think it's positive. I know both Chuck Kline and Walt Peechatka very well and I think they are two competent individuals both with their own talents.

ulations how producers conduct business "if they feel that will protect public health," she said.

The complex problems of SE and the industry will require complex answers, according to Dr. Lonnie King, USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, who also spoke on the panel. In September of 1990, the USDA tallied 57 SE outbreaks in the country, 18 of which were egg-associated, he said. Records show that, a few days before the conference this year, there were 29 SE outbreaks, six of which were egg-related. There were no deaths attributed to SE this year.

Today, USDA has restrictions on only seven flocks in the U.S. — three in Indiana, three in Pennsylvania, and one in Michigan. However, restrictions will soon be lifted on a few of them, according to King.

Problems found

Even though reported outbreaks of SE remain low, King cautioned those attending the panel that the problems with SE are still "disproportionally found in the Northeast and mid-Atlantic" areas.

King quoted a Health and Human Services publication, "Healthy People 2000," which states that if, by the year 2000, SE would be limited to 25 outbreaks in the U.S., that would be a successful program. "So that is our goal," he said.

McCharen attributes the current reduction in outbreaks to more awareness by the producer and handler.

"I don't know what to give the credit to," she said, "but I think the higher level of awareness that food service is one of the reasons, and perhaps the fact that food service operators are refrigerating eggs more often and cooking them more carefully has reduced the level of outbreaks as well as the fact that there's a lot of eggs no longer on the market anymore, from the traceback program."

Small percentage

Eggs are not responsible for most foodborne illness, she said. "They're responsible for a very small percentage of all illness related to food," she said.

McCharen said producers and users should realize that the percentage and levels of contamination in eggs "are the lowest of any food that they have in their kitchen," she said.

But McCharen said that public health will not accept any risk.

"Any illness is too much," she said. "One illness, one death, is too much.

"Egg producers need to look at steps to take to reduce the chances that their eggs will even cause a problem, even if they are mishandled, because we know that they are mishandled at food services," she said.

Little correlation

Results from studies on liquid eggs and infected birds showed that there is little correlation between birds who have SE present in ovaries and eggs that become infected with SE. And infection levels in many flocks were small, some on the order of only 10 SE organisms per egg, according to Dr. Robert Eckroade, head, Laboratory of Avian Medicine and Pathology at the University of Pennsylvania New Bolton Animal Health Research Center.

At that level of contamination, "you could eat as many eggs as you want and not get sick," said Eckroade.

"I honestly believe today that environmental contamination, and with the new role that we identified has been played by rodents in these houses, I believe is the most important source of salmonella enteritidis infecting the flocks," he said. Research shows that it is possible to "clean up these large layer houses that are known to be infected with SE," said Eckroade.

Researchers have looked at probable causes of SE outbreaks, and have zeroed in on mishandling of the eggs.

Temperature abuse

"We find that temperature abuse, starting at the farm all the way through processing to the consumer . . . contributes the rest of the problem . . .if the abuse that permits these few organisms in those few eggs to multiply to a point where they can actually cause a disease," said Eckroade.

But the disease may be controlled — not completely disposed of in the layer business.

"For the first time I think we're getting some insight that this is no a small, limited disease in the Northeast, and 'let's go get all the flocks, and we'll solve our problem.' That's not going to happen."

Producers must work closely with the FDA to control the SE and other problems that will confront the industry.

"The way this complex problem is going to be solved is full partnership between the state, the federal government, and the industry," said King.

"Today it's salmonella enteritidis," said McCharen. "It's going to be something else tomorrow."

Sheep Championship Won By A No-Show — Sort Of

ANDY ANDREWS

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — What if they held a champion show and the winner never came?

To answer the question of whether it's possible to sweep a championship and not attend the show, the answer's yes. New Holland Farm Show sheep competition champion Jodie Weaver only has her step-sister, Kristen Chupp, and friend Jessica Hertzog to thank.

They filled in for her when Jodie, 19, an Elizabethtown College sophomore, was tied up taking a test and couldn't attend the show.

But Jodie managed to win anyway, taking grand champion market lamb with her 138-pound Suffolk spring ewe on Wednesday at the Farm Show. Jodie also owns the reserve champion, a 136-pound Hampshire cross spring ewe. Jodie has been showing for six years. Kristen, 20, is a Garden Spot High School graduate. Jessica Hertzog, 17, is a senior at Conestoga Valley High School.

Judge Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester Co. livestock agent, saw the champion lamb as "right where we want it today" in terms of muscling and leanness. "It's what the market demands," she said.

Troy Bollinger, 17, exhibited the grand champion breeding sheep, a Dorset ram lamb. The Ephrata High School senior has been showing for three years and this is his first championship.

Fairbairn admitted to the exhibitors that the decision "wasn't easy at all," but was impressed with the Dorset ram's "fullness."

Jeff Martin, 20, won the reserve champion, with his Suffolk ewe lamb. Jeff, a 1989 Garden Spot High School graduate, has been showing for nearly 13 years and was won several championships in the past.

Fairbairn chose the reserve champion because of its "wide chest, muscling, and thickness."

Champion showmen at the New Holland Farm Show are, Julie Shirk, first year; Troy Bollinger, 2-3 years experience; and Jeff Martin, senior showman.

Kline Shows Grand Shorthorn

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Honey Creek King Regal Promise, a senior 2-year-old cow owned by Rodney L. Kline of Rocky Ridge, Maryland, captured grand champion honors at the Milking Shorthorn Show portion of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS).

PAADS is the premier autumn dairy classic in North America, held late September at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Honey Creek K. R. P. bested 78 other animals to win the event. First, she finished top among the senior 2-year-old cows. Then she went head-to-head with the winners of six other classes to become the grand champion.

Prizes for the grand champion Milking Shorthorn included a blue ribbon and a $100 premium. From here, Honey Creek and owner travel to the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisconsin. Then he plans to go to Louisville in November, and prepare for the next round of fair shows in August 1992.

Kline, 19, shows out of R. A. C. B. Farms in Rocky Ridge. Involved in shows since the age of 5, he started in 4-H shows when he was 8.

He said his two older brothers and one older sister got him interested in showing cattle. He currently owns seven animals, three of which are milking cows, ranging from 4 months to 5 years old. This was his third time at PAADS and he said he expects to be back next year.

Gleaning Continues To Feed The Poor, Hungry

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

TOWER CITY (Schuylkill Co.) — Each year, about 60 million tons of grain, fruit, and vegetables are left in the fields to rot. But did you know that if the food could be "gleaned" (gathered for the poor and hungry) it would be enough to feed 49 million people a day?

Today, gleaning has grown into an organized activity involving hundreds of volunteers and provides tons of food to the poor and elderly, according to Pat Colyott, of the Reguge Farm in Shippensburg, Pa.

Dates have been set aside to glean the fields and crops donated by area businesses. They include the following:

- October 12, Tallman's Potatoes, Tower City, Pa., 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Call (717) 647-2623.
- October 26, Peter's Mount Orchards, Gardners, Pa., 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Bring paper bags. Call John at (717) 528-4380.

The crops gleaned will be donated to the Food Bank in Harrisburg.

"Volunteers from various churches have been getting together to glean produce for the hungry," said Colyott. "Strawberries and blueberries were not only fun to pick (and eat), but were very enthusiastically received.

"As you can imagine, soup kitchens don't often see fresh vegetables and fruits," she said.

Gleaners don't always have to go into the fields, said Colyott. Some hear about the project and call to donate, she said.

"One farmer called and donated several hundred bushels of already picked green beans, several times," she said. "A hothouse tomato grower donated tomatoes, already picked."

One farmer offered to plant squash to be gleaned, but the drought stopped those plans. However, plans are being made for next year, said Colyott.

"A pastor and his wife donated two boxes of potatoes," she said. "It's happening — the efforts of a few are feeding many."

On May 1 this year, strawberries were gleaned at an area farm. Since July 12, blueberries have been gleaned, and in June, green bean gleaning began. Vine ripe tomatoes have been gleaned since July 26 in the region.

On October 5, Ashcomb's Nursery in Mechanicsburg opened its doors for pumpkins and squash to be gleaned.

If you have excess fruit or produce, or if you want to help glean, call Colyott at (717) 776-4230.

direct employees of Pennsylvania DHIA."

To date, half of the county associations have merged with the state association. Another 10 counties are in various stages of the process.

But not everyone is in agreement. Prior to the full board meeting, Lancaster County's committee met in closed scession with the executive committee to seek concessions.

In addition, a letter expressing concerns with reorganization that had been sent to county DHIA directors under the Bradford DHIA letter head was circulated at the board meeting.

However, reports from other county organizations have expressed relief that the responsibilities of employee relations and legal responsibilites are taken out of the hands of local volunteers and placed with the professional staff hired by the dairy farmers who sit on the state board.

In addition to the testing and billing services of the state association, other benefits that will not be provided to non-members after the deadline include adminstration of employee health and life insurance plans; workers' compensation and disability insurance; supervisor training and on-farm problem solving; supplies; rule enforcement; supervisor certification; and verification testing.

In other business, Bill Heald, PSU, reported that the herd performance evaluation programs have just gone into a pilot test with on-farm evaluations. This research program — supported by Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science, DHIA, Monsanto, and the Ben Franklin Partnership — is the first program in the nation to look at various factors in a dairy herd, pinpoint specific factors where managment changes will increase the bottom line, and give the dairy farmer an opportunity to check the progress that has been made. The program can be as specific as: "to increase peak production in the third lactation animals," Heald said.

"Most dairy herds have the genetic potential to produce more," Heald said. "This program will show where changes in management will help the bottom line."

Heald said individual cows or groups of cows can be analyzed. The program also allows dairy farmers to develop potential budgets. The dairy farmer can ask the computer, "If I make this management change or raise herd average to a higher standard, what will be the net increase or decrease in the bottom line?"

In his management report, Dick Barth showed membership growth charts where enrollment in DHIA followed milk price patters by six months at the rate of 1 herd gained or lost for every 3 cents change in milk price. At present, the 6,000-plus member herds house more than 50 percent of the cows in Pennsylvania. Cow numbers in the state have decreased rapidly over the last several years.

It was reported that more banks and credit institutions are requiring DHIA records as part of their loan approval packages. Major accomplishments and developments in 1990 and 1991 included such items as new services for heifer management, herd profile reports, customized reports option, FAX transfer options, billing system for direct members, herd evaluator system, a nutrition system, and the collection of calving ease data.

In addition, a total quality management program was adopted to improve service quality.

At the next board meeting in January, the group plans to meet with Dr. Stan Curtis and the faculty of the dairy science department at Penn State.

Lancaster County Farmers' Association Adopts Eight Policies

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Farmers' Association members hammered out eight polices during their annual dinner meeting held October 1 at the Leola Family Restaurant.

Before two of the proposals were approved, opposing viewpoints peppered the discussion. Those two proposals request that the Department of Agriculture be the sole agency for the administration and enforcement of any statewide nutrient management program and that the State Conservation Commission be transferred from the Department of Environmental Resources to the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of administration and oversight to farming operations.

Amos Funk, a Lancaster County vegetable grower, disagreed with the proposal. He said that fewer people are employed by the Department of Agriculture now than in 1935 and that the department is already slow to respond to the many demands on their time.

Rep. Terry Sheetz agreed with Funk. He said that DER has a lot of problems and an awesome responsibility, but they aren't unreasonable in their requests. He asked the Association, "What makes you think the Department of Agriculture will do a better job? Swine farmers bash the Department for what it did to them with pseudorabies and the Department of Ag runs the dog laws and look at the quandry they are in. "Nobody is at the Department of Agriculture when you call," he said. "I recommend a disapproval vote."

Rep. John Barley said that wherever the responsibility is placed, more personnel will be needed. He thinks the Department of Ag is more friendly to agriculture and it is those ag friendly organizations that should be in charge of issues dealing with farming. Barley used Maryland as an example where the Department of Ag works in conjunction with the Extension Service in nutrient management. "When we work with ag friendly agencies, we get more accomplished. We want the state to work with us rather than saying you will do this or else," he said.

Amos Funk countered that the Department is not more ag friendly. He reminded the members that it was the Department of Agriculture that wanted to prohibit all poultry expansion in the county instead of handling each case individually to see if a farmer was capable of managing the manure produced. He said that the Conservation District can enforce better than the Department of Agriculture or anyone else in Harrisburg since four farmers are on the conservation board."

Barley said that present policy encourages additional bureacracy that is unnecessary, that the law wants to mandate every farm program and gives potential for delays.

Rep. Sheetz accused Barley of trying to get away from any type of government control. "They (DER) aren't asking anything unrealistic. It's a practical approach," he said. As a farmer, Sheetz said that he doesn't look forward to filling out pounds of milk. She is classified as an Excellent 96. Born Feb. 26, 1985, she was bred by Murray Ross, her sire was Bridon Astro Jet-ET and her dam was Greendale Warden Kitty.

All-American Supreme

She was also selected as the top genetic animal in the Holstein breed, a first-time competition in which the top animals are decided based on a formula which takes into account genetic factors and class placing.

Richard Locke, of Lockway Farm, Mercersburg, took second place in the new contest with his multi-award winning aged cow, "Lockway Holly Sexation." In the show, Holly placed first among the dry cows 5-years-old and older and was second in the "best senior cow bred and owned" class.

The annual selection of an all-breed supreme champion at the All-American competition follows several days of competitions and animal sales within the breed organizations.

The selection of supreme champion is done with fanfare and dramatics. At the start of the final selection, all lights in the rennovated arena were turned off.

Then, cutting the pitch darkness, spotlights fixed on the breeds' top cows, illuminating them in the large black arena as they were walked out onto the show ring floor.

When all the top cows were in the ring, the house lights came back on and the top cows were paraded around the ring several times, allowing the audience and the judges to see each animal at a distance and up close.

Based on the scoring by the three judges, the top animal was selected.

Considered by the judges were comparisons of each cow as to how well each animal represented the "perfect" animal within its own breed.

As each of the top animals were entered into the ring, Horace Backus — a well-known Holstein seller and pedigree-reader — provided commentary on each of the champions.

The selection of the supreme champion was followed by a presentation of the award by state Agriculture Sectretary Boyd Wolff.

In addition to Astro Kat, the other grand champion cows included the Brown Swiss "My-T-Fine Whisper-ET," owned by Top Acres Farm, of St. Paris, Ohio; Guernsey "Wincrest Fayette Valerie, owned byLand of Living Farm, Ohio; Milking Shorthorn "Honey Creek King Regal" owned by Rodney Kline, of Maryland; the Ayrshire "Brilea Patricia's Image," owned by Double L Dairy, Centerburg, Ohio; and Jersey champion "Dynamic Duncan Beam," owned by Clover Hills West, of Strauton, Va.

Judging the National Ayrshire Show was Wayne Sliker, of St. Paris, Ohio. Officiating the Brown Swiss Eastern National show was David Dickson, of Madison, Wis., while J. Lee Majeskie, College Park, Md., judged the Milking Shorthorn breed.

Mark Erdman, of Chenoa, Ill., was judge for the National Guernsey Show, while Paul Chittenden, of Schodack Landing, N.Y., judged the Jerseys. Judge Paul King, of Moorefield, W. Va., and associate judge Gary Rogers, of University Park, officiated the Eastern National Holstein Show.

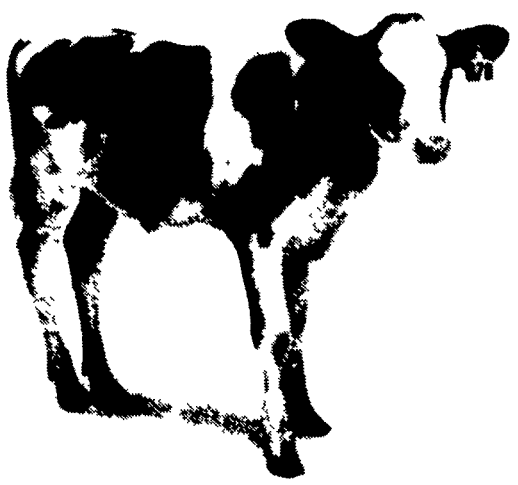
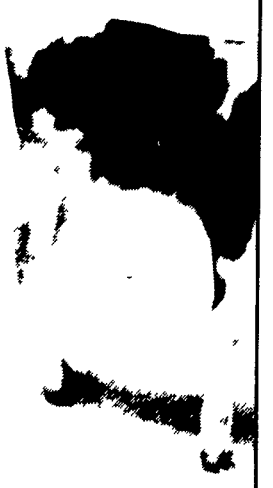
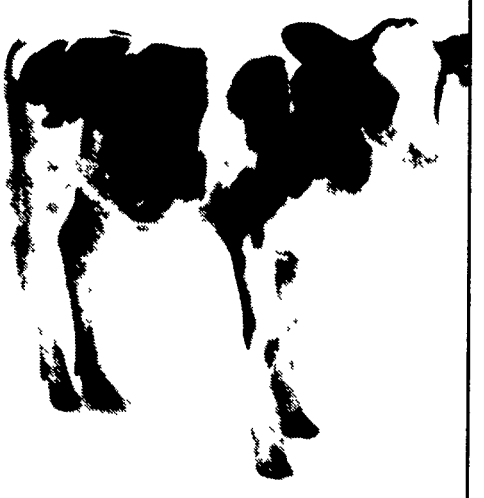
THEY'RE ALL GOING TO GIVE MILK SOMEDAY.





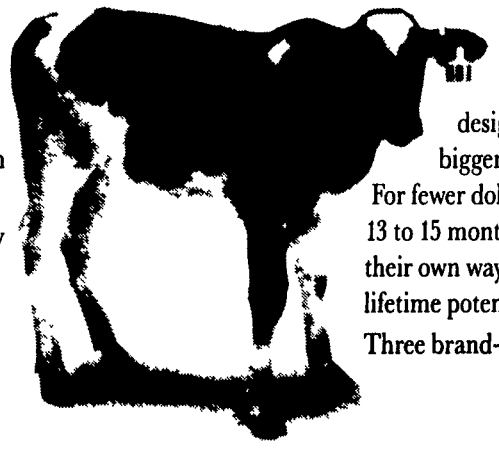
WHEN AND HOW MUCH IS UP TO YOU.



INTRODUCING PAYBACK 24™
A complete feed program for profitable herd replacement from Agway.

Until a heifer freshens and enters the milking string, she's pure expense. And every day beyond the optimum 24 months costs you an extra $2 to $3 per day, per head in additional feed costs and lost milk production. At 28 months, for example, that's $10,000 to $15,000 worth of lost income in a 120-cow herd. A lot of money, even in good times.

Yet on many Northeast dairy farms, first-calf heifers don't freshen until 28, 30 or even 32 months!



The Problem?
Inadequate nutrition and poor management practices that result in undernourished, undersized heifers, unable to achieve optimum growth and full potential.

The Solution? PAYBACK 24.
PAYBACK 24 is a comprehensive program consisting of eight high-quality Agway feeds, intensive nutrition and cost-effective management practices—all designed to help you raise bigger, healthier heifers faster. For fewer dollars. Ready to breed at 13 to 15 months. Ready to start paying their own way at 24 months with greater lifetime potential and profitability.

Three brand-new feeds were specially developed by Agway for use in this program: a Calf Pre-Starter that delivers exceptional performance, unlike any other in the Northeast and a calf starter containing highly palatable Ruma Sweet™, preferred by calves more than 4 to 1 in a Land O' Lakes trial of 15 competitive calf starter feeds A selection of heifer feeds containing Bovatec® in several protein levels rounds out the Payback 24 feed program.

Start Getting Your Payback Sooner.
Talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson Get the whole story on Payback 24. And be sure to ask about your free 50 lb. bag of new Agway Calf Pre-Starter. It's the first step toward a more profitable future. Offer expires November 30, 1991.

New York Dairy Farmers Vote No

BATAVIA, NY — In a statewide referendum that concluded on September 25, New York dairy farmers narrowly defeated continuation of the Rogers-Allen Order that included a $14.50 minimum price for Class I milk. The referendum required approval by 66.6 percent of all dairy farmers in the state. A total of 64.4 percent voted in favor.

RCMA officials said they were disappointed that some cooperatives voted against the Rogers-Allen Order despite the fact that it generated $13.7 million for New York's dairy farmers during the three months of June, July and August. RCMA Executive Director Carmen L. Ross said the vote has destroyed the tool that produced this much-needed money for farmers.

"Milk processors have preached that they are in favor of a level playing field, which Rogers-Allen would have provided," Ross said. "But these same handlers actively campaigned against the Rogers-Allen Order, instead of supporting it."

Though milk prices currently are rising, economists predict they will drop again in the spring of 1992 to the levels that produced this year's economic hardships. The Rogers-Allen Order would have protected dairy farmers from this drop.

As a ripple effect, this vote will adversely affect dairy farmers throughout the Northeast, where many states established premiums based upon New York's price.

RCMA directors are examining options to continue the organization's efforts to raise milk prices throughout the Northeast.

Lebanon Recognizes 4-H Volunteers, Leaders

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Volunteers make the Lebanon County extension program work, according to officials. And officials and all who attended the annual banquet — all involved with extension work — honored volunteers and those who made Lebanon's program work well.

The program in Lebanon is outstanding, according to officials, because of the widespread successes which have resulted from it.

The annual program, held at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall, in Schaefferstown, is held to recognize those people who have volunteered their time, expertise and leadership toward helping others within the community become better at self-relience.

The objective of the extension program is to have progress within a community through education and development of individual skills.

Lebanon County has been held up as an example of what can be achieved through mutual help and dedication to that cause.

A number of examples were related throughout the evening.

In addition, special mention was made of deceased Warren Bucher, a member of the community who had served the extension system selflessly for 33 years, since 1958, in one capacity or another, to help improve the education and opporunities of those within the county.

In a special memorium included in the annual report, a portion stated, "In his 33 years of involvement with the extension program, he never lost his desire to learn new things, to question how research might be applied in the county to benefit agriculture. he envourgaed new people to paritici-pate in educational opportunities. He asked question that got to the heart of the matter, was always on the lookout for ways to improve our program.

"Throughout the year years he took time to got to state and regional meeting on behalf of extension, he contacted legislators, made phone calls, sold tickets, helped oreint new agents, was interested in what all the staff was doing. As they today, 'He was there for us when we needed support.'"

Also during the meeting, current volunteers were recognized for their efforts to help, and an election of new board members was held, the results of which were not immediately availble.

N.Y. Junior Dairyman Team Repeats Win

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Junior Dairyman contest at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is reputed to be the "toughest junior contest" in the nation.

But that didn't daunt the Canaseraga Active Achievers of Allegany County, N.Y. in six and a half hard hours of judging, quizes, feed identification, and management classes at the Farm Show Complex here, the New Yorkers scored 876 points to win the 4-H team title for the second straight year and to grab four of the first five individual awards.

Pennsylvania youth weren't about to be shutout in their own backyard. Westmoreland County placed second in the 4-H team contest with 799 points, and Cumberland County third with 708 points.

In the FFA team competition, Pennsylvania dominated with Tulpehocken High School FFA scoring 609 points to take first, Lancaster Mennonite High School FFA finishing second with 578 points and the FFA team from Penns Valley High School, Spring Mills, a close third with 566 points.

Top individual honors and a new $500 scholarship went to Rob Wilson of New York's Canaseraga Active Achievers who earned 453 points. Murel Raub, a 4-H member from Perry County, won second place and $100 with a 398 point score. 4-H members Emily Hill, Shannon Lacy and Bryan Wilson of the Active Achievers took third, fourth and fifth respectively.

"Turnout is the biggest in five years of the Junior Dairyman Contest," Chairman Carl Brown said, noting that the 87 4-H and FFA contestants hailed from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Awards this year also set a new high of $1,335, he said.

Sponsors for the fifth annual Junior Dairyman Contest were Pfizer's Animal Health Division and Church & Dwight's Arm and Hammer Products.

Judges included Jeff Tyson of Church and Dwight, Dr. Fernando Luzando, a veterinarian with Pfizer, and Jim Barnett, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative. Superintendent was Walter Wurster, Chester County Extension Agent.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within FIVE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next five years paperwork required for manure management, but someone needs to accept responsibility.

Lancaster County Farmers' Association

When the discussion was brought to a close, the majority of members voted in support of the two proposals.

The eight polices approved by the Association will be proposed at the Pennsylvania Farmers' Convention scheduled for November 18 to 20 at Hershey. The policies are as follows:

•Policy introduced by Phil Risser asked that PFA recommend that Congress enact dairy legislation that will provide processor milk prices within each marketing area to be determined by market conditions within the area to gradually elimnate government purchases and to provide for monthly changes in producer milk prices of no more than one per cent of the previous month. Risser said that this would help farmers budget on facts and help bankers have some confidence that the budget can be met.

•Policy also passed that depreciation be considered an expense item regarding agricultural enterprises in all legal judgements. Paul Hartz, who introduced the legislation, said that presently the government adds depreciation to income.

•Recommends that the Department of Agriculture be the sole agency for the administration and enforcement of any statewide nutrient management program.

•Recommends that the State Conservation Commission be transferred from the Department of Environmental Resources to the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of administration and oversight to farming operations.

•Recommend that any kennel state inspector cannot give a citation on the first visit and must give a seven-day period for correction. Also that inspector can give only one citation per visit.

•Recommend and support legislation that prohibits any voluntary organization having the authority at any state or federal licensing kennel.

•Recommend legislation to protect small animal breeders from having to pay any vet expenses on a pet they selll. However, if an examination by a vet within 5 days of purchase determines the pet to be ill, the owner has 24 hours to return the animal to the seller and receive another of equal value or a full refund.

•Recommend the elimination of point 5 on page 48 in the PFA policy book concerning manure and nutrient management because of the potential burden and unnecessary delays that such a requirement has on farmers receiving approval for nutrient management.

During the banquet Pam Lehman, 12-year-old daughter of Dennis and Karen Lehman of Manheim, received a $100 savings bond for her prize-winning poster. Her poster, which deals with safety relating to falls, was chosen as one of the top 12 posters in the state and will be entered in state competition for the grand prize that will be awarded at the state convention in November.

In other business, there was a motion to pursue county lifetime memberships, an update on the ag alliance where ag businesses work with WGAL to produce pro ag TV programs, and a report on the Market Master program.

The following directors were reelected: Jane Balmer, district 1; Robert Fox, district 4; Donald Ranck, district 6; Wilmer Yost, district 7; Robert Best, district 9; and Glenn Aument, district 13.

Ag Department Reorganizes

"I must admit a bit of guilt in leaving the department in January and leaving the slack in manpower to do the work that needed to be picked up. But now Boyd will have the support he needs," Crawford said.

And Crawford said he couldn't think of better people to fill those jobs.

"I think you are putting some good people in key spots. Both Chuck Kline and Walt Peechatka have their strengths. I think all three of them complement each other. They are experienced. They are not lackeys or political bureaucrats. They are committed to proving the department of agriculture can be a top flight agency.

"I think that there are a lot of things that the General Assembly and the Department of Agriculture can do together to the benefit of agriculture in Pennsylvania. Both Representative Cole and I look foward to doing that."

Crawford also said he's pleased with the move to filling the 30 rank-and-file positions.

"I knew they had a significant number of vacancies, but I didn't know the exact number. The process of recruiting and filling vacancies can be tedious. I hope they can get them more quickly, because I'm sure they want to do just that.

"Let's face it," he said. "Those positions are where the rubber meets the road. There's only so long a person can do two or three jobs at a time."

Breaking old habits can make sense.

Year after year, some insurance policies are renewed without being updated. Call us today, and start the good habit of reviewing your insurance program — we'll do it free.

Genetic Judging In 'Focus' At KILE Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Most times, what you see should be what you get.

For the first time, the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) can prove that adage true through an innovative show.

The American Polled Hereford Genetic Focus Show at KILE will provide the same information to the judges that is available to the cattlemen.

The judging will be done on a composite basis by three judges. The results will be tallied and, after the champions are selected, results from the show will be available to the public.

Using computer-oriented information obtained previous to show day, plus measurements, extensive breed databases, in addition to expected progency differencs (EPDs) data, the audience will get the see the visual and final scores on a screen as the judge sees at the show ring, according to the Pennsylvania Livestock Association.

Other show data to be collected include pelvic measurements on both female and male offspring; ultrasound to measure backfat, loin eye dimension, and overall muscling; and comparison data to determine desirable genetic characteristics.

Nearly one-half of the total show judging took place Friday before the show, including EPDs, birthweight, weaning weight, yearling weight, and other factors. Also, fat thickness, ribeye per cut, and frame scores were also compiled.

The day of the "visual" judging in the ring, judges will be looking at overall appearance. At this time, scores will be projected via computer to an overhead for the audience to see.

Judges for the show include Steve Radakovich, Earlham, Iowa; Dr. Charles McPeake, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.; and Bill Brockett, Virginia Beef, Hay Market, Va.

"The Angus Association had a similar, demonstration-type show at their Futurity in Louisville," said Marilyn Emory, communications director of the American Polled Hereford Association.

According to Emory, other test class shows were held by the Gelbvieh Association at the California State Fair.

"The show will make the event less a fashion show and more a production show," said Sheila Miller, former Pennsylvania secretary of the American Polled Hereford Association. "It will help take some of the politics out of the show ring."

The show, to be held Saturday at noon in the Small Arena of the Farm Show Complex, will draw a large number of animals from all over the eastern United States, according to the association.

"The input a show champion can have on the industry can be tremendous," said Miller. "Many of the champion bulls are used for breeding purposes. This show will help determine actual farm offspring performance."

According to Miller, this method of determining show ring champions could "spill over" into other championship shows, including dairy shows.

KILE has been chosen as one of two shows in the nation to host the Genetic Focus Show for the American Polled Hereford Association. The first show was held last year at the American Royal Show in Kansas City, Mo.

Ultrasound technology, such as this demonstrated by Penn State College of Agriculture students to study backfat, loin eye dimension, and muscling, will be used at the Polled Hereford Show at KILE on Saturday.

ULTRAFLO OUT-PERFORMS CHAIN
CONSIDER YOUR FEED CONVERSION BONUS

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder for layers, pullets and breeders

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 45 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake

HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

All it takes is a radio announcement as a reminder.

You've heard them. From "Sky Eye" or "Traffic Bird" or whatever they call the traffic reports announced by radio stations at prime commuter travel time.

The tie-up might be a truck that lost a load of pipe as it came around an interstate cloverleaf. Construction that narrows three lanes to one, or alternately halts traffic to one-way. A multi-car pileup at a busy four-way traffic-light intersection. Even a fender-bender along a heavily-traveled route which simply causes a slow-down as drivers "rubberneck" the situation.

Having seen - and sat through - a few of those backups while traveling to and from farm meetings, those "delay" announcements never fail to renew my appreciation for not having to commute to work.

It's one of a farmer's tradeoffs for wrangling with lowball farm prices, rising expenses, and uncooperative weather.

Actually we do commute, sort of. The trip to the calf barn is a 39-step journey for me and the dairy barn a few steps more. That's from the front door. From the back porch or the basement, the dairy barn is closer. The Farmer has even less distance - in steps, anyway - since his stride is longer than mine.

Of course, if you detour to pet a kitten, or stick a letter in the mailbox, or throw a stick for the dog to fetch, the journey is just a half longer.

But while we don't commute, the livestock around the place is constantly back and forth in pursuit of a daily living.

Every morning, after chowing down on mixed silages and grain, the dairy herd parades out of the barn and up to the feed bunk - to eat more. From there, the cows journey out to one of the pasture lots to graze a little now that grass has returned, lounge around for the afternoon, or take turns splattering mud on their udders in the lone wet spot near the fountain.

By mid-afternoon, a good number of them will cheerfully run right over your feet in the commute back to the barn to bellyup to the feed trough again.

And all the cats commute, from varying distances. They're generally at work before I am, especially cheery mornings when they sit in the sunshine below the calf nursery and groom themselves before breakfast. When I show up with milk buckets, cats change lanes around my feet like breakneck beltway drivers.

Some journey up from the dairy barn, where they faithfully patrol the rodent population. Another couple travel from the high country, up in the hay mow of the bank barn. And a few of the less ambitious ones never move father from the cat dishes than the shelter of the heifer pens six feet away.

Our guineas, carefully protecting the one half-grown youngster, depart their roosting spots early each morning. End destination appears to be the fields, although they cruise about so quickly and erratically it's hard to tell if there is any destination.

Actually the guineas' entire day is one endless commute, one business stop after another. Their business is eating, so they sample weed seeds from the flower border and bugs scratched up from the vegetable garden mulch. Drinks of milk left in the cats' dish and pecking at dead flies emptied on the pavement from the electronic fly "zapper."

Mama Hen and her seven scruffy-looking chicks follow a similar pattern, but within more limited confines. They travel a sort of inner loop around the back yard, pausing to scratch under the old pine, rummage about through the thick clumps of hosta and dust themselves in a bare patch of soft soil.

Come to think of it, all the livestock commuting has to do with going to eat or coming from eating.

Think how much wear and tear on feet and hooves we could save if we could just route all these hungry mouths by way of some sort of drive-through, fast-feed window.

Why Is It Ok To Eat More Eggs?

I've heard I should not eat eggs because of their high cholesterol content even though my blood cholesterol level is not high.

For years eggs did get a bad rap for their high cholesterol content. Now, however, even the American Heart Association says that it's all right to eat four egg yolks per week instead of three.

Why have they changed their opinion?

Using improved laboratory methods, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recently found that a Large egg has only 213 mg of cholesterol, not the 274 mg previously reported.

Haven't I heard about a low-cholesterol egg?

Yes, a lower-cholesterol egg is being introduced in some markets. It's lower in cholesterol (160 to 180 mg) but is more expensive than a regular egg. Although this sounds impressive, a reduction of 30 to 40 mg of cholesterol in the diet has no significant effect on the blood cholesterol level.

If you do wish to buy low-cholesterol eggs, be careful. Colored-shell eggs are often sold as lower-cholesterol or, sometimes, as no-cholesterol eggs. Such claims are untrue. These eggs actually contain slightly more cholesterol than ordinary eggs!

My cholesterol count is high but reducing the cholesterol and fat in my diet doesn't seem to make much difference.

Perhaps you are one of a small minority of people who have a genetic susceptibility to high cholesterol. For these people, no matter what they do or do not eat, they continue to have higher blood cholesterol than the average person. Follow your doctor's advice.

Do eggs contain saturated fat?

Yes, a Large egg yolk contains about 1.5 grams of saturated fat. That's about as much as in two teaspoons of non-dairy coffee creamer or olive oil. There are only 5 grams of total fat in a Large egg yolk, or about one teaspoon.

To be sure I don't eat too much cholesterol, I have been eating only the white of the egg, but someone told me the yolk is nutritious, too. Is that true?

Indeed, it is! The yolk contains 44% of the egg's protein. Except for riboflavin and niacin, the yolk contains a higher proportion of the egg's total vitamins, all of the vitamins A, D, E and K, (the egg is one of the few foods which contain vitamin D) and more calcium, iron, zinc and phosphorus than the white. If your blood cholesterol level is not high, think twice before you discard the nutritious yolk.

Ephrata Fair: Where Entering Exhibits Is Family Tradition

At right, Eleanor Hartranft, general exhibits chairperson for the Ephrata Fair, shows off many of the ribbons she won in competition at the Ephrata Fair. Elva Sharp, who works as security for the general exhibits, won a second prize for a quilt.

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Eleanor Hartranft certainly does her part to make the Ephrata Fair a success. Not only does she enter oodles of stuff in competition but also she is chairperson for general exhibits, which includes baked goods, flowers, photography and crafts.

"I've been entering things for 43 years and I haven't missed a year," a jubilant Eleanor reported as she garnered an armful of ribbons awarded her.

She collected first prizes for her apple, lemon sponge, shoo fly, and peach pies. Second prize ribbons for her entry in the state apple pie contest and marigolds, and third Milly Eisenmann, Gladys Royer, and Celia Laush enjoy setting up the vegetables displays at the Ephrata Fair.

What is it? It's a cuccuzzini, a 50-inch freak squash that Bertha and Willard Cammauf of Reading admire. Jack and Kathy Hacher Tinney of Montgomery County grew the squash that normally grows only 18 to 24 inches in length.

West Lampeter Fair Boasts Good Food, Atmosphere, Fun

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Things haven't changed much in the West Lampeter Fair's 67 year history. Sure, they've added some new events, but that small town friendliness, wholesome atmosphere, and scrumptious food so prevalent at the three-day event never fails to please fairgoers.

In the Fair Restaurant Elsie Houser and her gang of volunteers cooked 889 pounds of chicken, 440 pounds of beef, and sliced 200 pies for those famous homecooked dinners in which West Lampeter excells.

The group with the help of senior citizens even make their own homemade applesauce for the occasion. And, Herb Werner from Willow Street, made his famous chicken corn soup.

All this effort is volunteer so that the money collected for the food can be given to the Fair fund. It's that community spirit made possible by the farmers, local businesses, and citizens that encourages youth to exhibit animals, vegetables, sewing, art, baking and canning projects.

Rain dampened some of the Fair days, which was held September 25 to 27, but, according to Elsie Houser, the wet weather was nothing compared to the rainout Hurricane Gloria wreaked on the Fair grounds a number of years ago. "We had to cancel our food orders that week," Elsie said.

Elsie has been in charge of the Fair's restaurant for at least 17 years. She thinks it's time to retire.

"I told them that this is my last year," Elsie said, "but I'll come back to help and to eat some of the food, of course."

The years keep passing since the Fair's inception in 1924, but one good thing for fairgoers, the good food keeps on being served.

Known as the "Pie Lady" at the West Lampeter Fair, Erma Huber, left, serves a piece of pie to Dorothy Charles who schedules help for the dining room. About 200 pies are needed for the individual servings during Fair week.

prize ribbons for double crust apple and her cherry pies.

"I like the excitement of competition. It gets in your blood," said Eleanor who got her start in fair competition when she was nine years old. "I entered apples for my father's orchard," she said. Her father had John Brossman's Orchard. Soon fair officials were asking for Eleanor's help in identifying apple varieties.

That's how she got her start that eventually led to a board of director's position for the fair. Now, she has her daughters and even her grandchildren providing entries for the displays.

Other veteran workers at the Fair include Celia Lausch of Denver, Milly Eisenmann of Ephrata, and Gladys Royer of Ephrata.

For 50 years Celia and her family have been entering vegetables at the Fair.

"We have oodles of ribbons," she said.

As usual, Celia entered sickle pears this year. Sickle pears are unusual, old-fashioned pears that "taste as sweet of honey."

Although vegetable entries were down because of the dry weather, fruit was plentiful and sweeter, according to Celia.

Celia, Milly, and Gladys said they like working at the vegetables display.

"I get a big charge out of the vegetable freaks and I like the imaginative ways people display gourd basket," said Gladys.

SUPERMARKETING TODAY

Supermarkets are not what they used to be. Now, marketing strategies and the proliferation of goods on the grocery shelf make one-stop weekly shopping a cross between an obstacle course and twenty questions. Market research says that every minute spent beyond the typical 80 or 90 minute trip costs you an additional $1.89. Here are some of the latest trends in supermarket shopping.

Small specialty shops designed to deliver cheeses or deli meats, full service fish markets, in-store bakeries, and ready-to-eat kiosks are easily located by their color-coded walls, tile floors, banners, awnings or other eye catching devices. While catering to the impulse buyer, the cost of some of these extras, particularly the ready-to-eat foods, may be more than you want to spend.

The produce section is purposely constructed to create "turbulence" or roadblocks so that you have to maneuver around these. Free-standing bins or sale items are placed in the "traffic hot spot", that area in which you are likely to turn, but your eyes face opposite to the turn direction. This is the "strong side" of your turn. We certainly know that the milk and bread aisles are not easily located by the checkout counter, but rather at the fartherest location from the cash register and past additional temptations.

Food companies often pay "slotting allowances" or rent to display their wares on the shelf. The most popular brand for a store is usually placed at eye level, while competing and store brands are placed either above or below the item. Specially marked items, often called "loss leaders" can induce you to frequent an altemative store from the one where you normally shop, but beware of all the extra items purchased which were not on your list or whose prices are higher than the competitor's.

New trends on the horizon are designed to lure the shopper in this highly competitive business. Supermarkets are now enticing sales by conducting taste tests of products in store with a corresponding coupon for purchase of the product. Although not a new idea, the volume of sampling has increased to where it is possible to sample all the components of a dinner!

Video shopping carts are being tested at some stores. The checkout scanner can now computerize your shopping habits. If you begin to purchase baby food, the store may send you coupons for additional purchases in that area.

Some of the following statistics may boggle the mind. The average family makes 2.3 trips to the supermarket every week averaging 35-40 minutes. While 31% of us write out a shopping list, 66% of our purchases are unplanned. Although the average household spends $74 per week, a family of five spends $109 whereas singles spend $40. Two can eat as cheaply as one!

The supermarkets are averaging 46,892 square feet (almost the size of a football field) stocking 26,430 different items as compared with 11,767 items a decade ago. Of the 10,558 new products introduced every year, 80% fail. The main reason for choosing a supermarket according to 98% of the people is produce. Variety, meat selection and courteous employees also rank highly.

So on your next trip to the market, check out those "turbulence" pattems, be wary of "loss leaders" and watch your waistline when sampling.

With vegetables finishing up in the garden a good recipe to use tomatoes, green peppers, and onions is to use them as vegetable shells.

Tomato, Green Pepper and Onion Shells

4 each of tomatoes, green peppers, and onions
¼ teasponn dried thyme, crushed
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Filling:
1 cup cooked peas
¼ cup cooked rice
2 slices chopped bacon
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
parsley sprigs

Use a knife to cut off the tops of whole vegetable. Hollow out the centers of each vegetable. Place, cut side up in an 8x8x2-inch baking dish. Sprinkle each vegetable lightly with salt. For peppers or onions, cover with vented clear plastic wrap. Micro-cook on 100 percent power (HIGH) until vegetable is partially cooked. Allow 1½ to 2½ minutes for peppers and allow 4 to 5 minutes for onions. Drain liquid from vegetables; set aside. Do not partially cook tomatoes.

If desired, place bacon slices in a 1-quart casserole. Micro-cook, covered with paper toweling, on 100 percent power (HIGH) for 1½ to 2 minutes or until crisp. Drain bacon; crumble and set aside. Micro-cook onion, butter or margarine, and seasoning, covered, on 100 percent power (HIGH) for 2 to 4 minutes or until tender. Stir in grated Parmesan cheese and filling. Spoon filling mixture into the hollowed vegetable. Micro-cook, covered, on 100 percent power (HIGH) for 1½ to 2½ minutes. Micro-cook, covered, on 50 percent power (MEDIUM) for 3 to 6 minutes or until filling mixture is hot and whole vegetable is tender. Let stand, covered, for 1 to 3 minutes. Sprinkle with the crumbled bacon or parsley sprigs, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

You don't have to learn to cook all over again just to use your microwave oven. Use the cooking techniques you are already familiar with and learn just a few new techniques such as covering. Although microwave cooking is a moist cooking method and most foods will not dry out, covering is often used to help hold the steam in and cook foods faster.

Pot Roast

½ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
2 tablespoons cold water
2 tablespoons all purpose flour
1 - 3 pound beef chuck pot roast (Up to 2-inches thick)
½ cup water
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 medium carrots, cut
3 medium potatoes, peeled and cut into 1 inch cubes
3 stalks celery cut into 2-inch pieces
2 medium onions, quartered
1 - 4 oz. can mushroom stems & pieces

Trim excess fat from the pot roast. In a 1-quart casserole stir together ½ cup water, Worcestershire sauce, beef bouillon granules, minced garlic, salt, pepper, and seasoning; add the pot roast. Micro-cook, covered on 100 percent power (HIGH) for 5 minutes. Micro-cook covered, on 50 percent power (MEDIUM) for 35 minutes. Turn the pot roast; add carrots, potatoes, celery and quartered onions.

Micro-cook meat and vegetables, covered, on 50 percent power (MEDIUM) for 25 to 40 minutes until the meat and vegetables are tender; spoon broth over vegetables once or twice during cooking. Remove meat and vegetables to a serving platter. Skim fat from broth. Stir together liquid and thickener. Stir liquid mixture and drained mushrooms into broth. Micro-cook, uncovered, on 100 percent (HIGH) for 5 to 10 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring every minute. Micro-cook, uncovered on 100 percent power (HIGH) for 1 minute more. Spoon some thickened broth over meat and vegetables on serving platter. Makes 8 servings.

A snack for the kids to make is Snack Mix. It is not only nutritious but easy for the kids to make.

Snack Mix

1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
Dash of garlic powder
1 cup peanuts
⅓ cup butter or margarine
5 cups desired cereal

Cereal options: bite-size shredded corn squares, bite-size shredded wheat squares, or bran squares, wheat biscuits, round toasted oat cereal.

1 cup chow mein noodles
1 cup pretzels

Place butter or margarine in a large non-metal mixing bowl. Micro-cook, uncovered on (HIGH) power for 1 to 1½ minutes or until butter or margarine is melted. Stir in seasoning. Add desired cereal, chow mein noodles, pretzels and nuts. Toss gently until mixture is coated.

Micro-cook, uncovered on HIGH power for 5½ to 6½ minutes or until cereal is toasted, stirring every 2 minutes. Spread in a large shallow pan to cool. Makes about 7 cups.

Lower Fat In Your Recipe

You can reduce the fat in most recipes by substituting different ingredients and by cutting the amounts of some ingredients. This omelet is an example:

Before

2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon bacon drippings
2 slices bacon, crisp-cooked, drained, and crumbled
¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese

After

2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
Pan spray

¼ -cup chopped turkey ham
2 tablespoons shredded low moisture part-skim mozzarella cheese

Beat together eggs and water. In 7- to 10-inch omelet pan or skillet over medium-high heat, heat bacon drippings or pan spray until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water.

Pour in egg mixture. (Mixture should set immediately at edges.) With an inverted pancake turner, carefully push cooked portions at edges toward center so uncooked portions can reach hot pan surface, tilting pan and moving cooked portions as necessary. When top is thickened and no visible liquid egg remains, fill with bacon or turkey ham and cheese. With pancake turner, fold omelet in half and slide onto plate.

Forgetful Kangaroo Rats Reseed Nevada Desert

WASHINGTON D.C. — Kangaroo rats in Nevada's Great Basin are reseeding native grasses on the parched desert — whenever they have a memory lapse.

"At night, when it's cooler, kangaroo rats gather native grass seeds and dig shallow holes to store them, said William S. Longland of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"But sometimes they forget where they stash them," he sais.

One of the rat's favorite foods is Indian ricegrass seed. More than 100 years ago, Paiute and Shoshone tribes collected the seed for food — as do the furry, tan kangaroo rats today.

Caches of Indian ricegrass seed forgotten by the animals appear to be the primary source of new ricegrass seedlings in the desert, says Longland, an animal ecologist at the Landscape Ecology of Rangelands Research Unit in Reno, Nev., operated by USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Plant seeds are dispersed by wind, water and animals. But the round seeds of ricegrass are heavy. They lack lightweight appendages that, on other seeds, act as wings to catch the wind.

So, Longland says, the rats have a role in spreading the seed.

"We're just beginning to understand the complex interaction between native plants and animal communities in the desert," says James A. Young, research leader of the Reno lab.

"In this desert environment, anything that gives a forage plant a survival edge can add food for livestock and wildlife, plus vegetation as a buffer against erosion," Young says.

He says the ricegrass has an "extensive root system that helps it stabilize land that's been overgrazed, burned or mined."

Scientists at the Reno station found earlier that seeds of ricegrass germinate better if they have been inside the rat's cheek pouch.

Why this happens isn't clear, Longland says, but he has found two types of beneficial fungi in their cheek pouches. One of them, saprophytic fungi, may promote seed germination, while the other, mycorrrhizal fungi, help plant roots get nutrients.

If the size of kangaroo rat populations in an area and the soil characteristics are known, "it would help tell how well Indian ricegrass would grow when planted for forage," Longland says. Another payoff: being able to predict how well the environment can recover from a range fire.

As the rats forage, they use small front paws to stuff several hundred seeds in each creek pouch. They initially store most of the seeds in a practice known as "scatterhoarding." But they return days or weeks later to dine on their seed stash.

Longland says that in recent years the Reno studies suggest the rats and the ricegrass evolved together through some interdependent relationship.

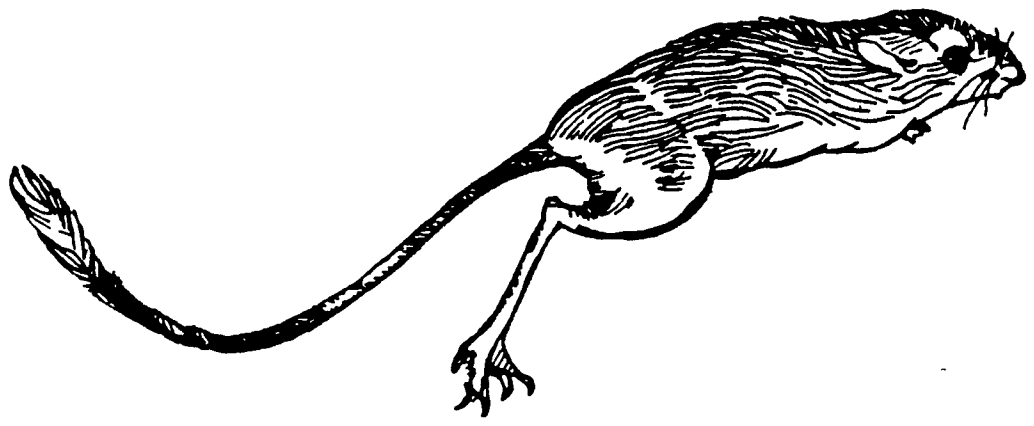
As an example, the rats apparently depend on seeds for water as well as food. Longland says the animal is able to extract water from seeds while digesting them.

One afternoon, to find out where the rats hide their seeds, he put out piles of seeds dusted with a harmless, powdered fluorescent dye. That night, as kangaroo rats collected seeds, they left a trail of dye.

The next night, Longland returned with an ultraviolet light. He could see fluorescent trails crisscrossing through the sand, leading him to the seed hoards.

Currently, he's discovering more about how the rats distribute their seed stashes and how they recover their buried hoards by their sense of smell. But despite tricks like fluorescent dye, the rat is slow to give up its entrepreneurial secrets.

"We would expect them to find 100 seeds more easily than one, but they don't," he says. "They seem to be just as adapt at recovering a single buried seed as a buried pile of 100 seeds."



Catsup: Smidgen or Splash

If you'd like to know why catsup only dribbles from its bottle after a few smacks, then suddenly gushes forth after another hit, just ask a rheologist.

A Who?

Well, rheologists are physicists who specialize in studying how matter flows. And one of their target substances is catsup. According to rheologist Malcome Bourne of Cornell University, catsup belongs to a group of materials called plastic solids. These kinds of materials have a thick consistency while in their resting state. However, once agitated, they change to a more liquid form. Such a turnabout can take place quite suddenly. A wide range of familiar products such as mayonnaise, printing inks, and applesauce are affected by this principle. It also explains why in stormy weather some kinds of mountainous soils sometimes turn to flowing mud almost instantaneously, causing destructive landslides.

The catsup in a newly opened bottle is in its typical plastic-solid state and one's natural inclination is to thwack the bottle's bottom. This agitates the internal structure of the catsup. Depending on the force with which the bottle is hit, and how many times, the catsup verges on becoming a liquid. At this stage, a hard hit can send a catstrophic gush of the condiment splashing over hamburger or hotdog, whereas just a few seconds before the best one could hope for was a few scattered drops.

A better idea, says Bourne, is to shake the catsup bottle vigorously before opening. If this maneuver doesn't work, tap the bottle's bottom a few times with steadily increasing force. "You have to be patient. And patience is the thing you need to get just the right amount of catsup where you want it."

Super Boom outworks 'em all

Super Boom loaders do a whole bunch of jobs smarter, better, faster. Here's why:

Super Boom loaders have a longer wheelbase and lower center of gravity for extra stability and speed on rough ground and slopes. And, with full bucket rollback they have more useful load-carrying capacity.

Super Boom loaders have more dump reach. A big benefit when you're loading a large spreader, placing a load over a fence, or loading into a high bin. The reach-riser boom lifts loads up, out and away, so there's less chance of spillback, and you're not going to end up wearing part of the load.

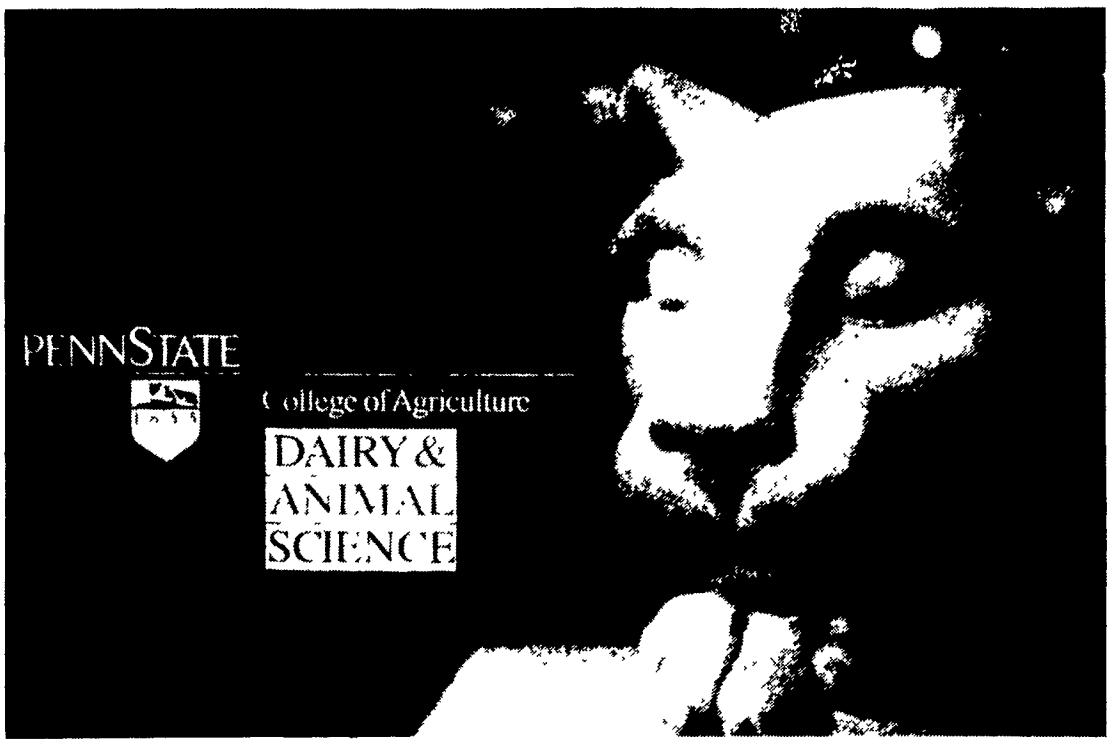
Penn State, The Tradition Of Excellence

Nestled in the beautiful Nittany Valley of central Pennsylvania is one of the most exciting and diverse university environments in the country. This unique interface of rural, suburban and urban areas offers something for everyone. Probably most recognized for its ability to field eleven men clad in black cleated athletic shoes, blue and white uniforms, and emblems absent from their helmets, The Pennsylvania State University was founded on and continues to pride itself on a tradition of excellence deep in animal and agricultural sciences.

The College of Agriculture and The Department of Dairy and Animal Science

Founded in 1855 as the Farmers' High School, Agriculture was the first of 11 colleges established at Penn State. The College of Agriculture and its Department of Dairy and Animal Science have long been leaders in the agricultural sciences and continue to blend the three important missions of the land-grant university system -- research, extension and teaching. Research has been and continues to be a critical cornerstone of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science. In the early 1900s, an animal scientist developed the first scientific instrument to quantify animal metabolism, the Armsby respiration calorimeter. During the 1960s and 1970s, extensive research was conducted in artificial insemination of cattle by faculty in Dairy and Animal Science. Currently, faculty in the department continue to explore ways to improve pasture and forage utilization and to understand further the physiological processes that regulate growth, lactation and reproduction.

The most unique aspect of Penn State's College of Agriculture is its dedication and devotion to its undergraduate students. Recruitment activities in the College of Agriculture attract students with diverse backgrounds and wide-ranging interests. More than two-thirds of the undergraduates in the College come from nonfarm backgrounds, and about 35 percent are women. The College of Agriculture has about 350 full-time faculty members, 400 graduate and 1800 undergraduate students. More specifically, The Department of Dairy and Animal Science has approximately 30 full-time faculty members, 30 graduate and 180 undergraduate students.



The Nittany Lion focuses on the Dairy and Animal Science Department.

The College of Agriculture at Penn State offers 20 undergraduate majors, 12 minors, 3 associate degree programs, 1 winter certificate course, 17 programs at the graduate level and actively participates in 8 intercollege graduate programs. Of the 20 undergraduate majors available in agriculture, none is more diverse and rewarding than the Dairy and Animal Science major.

Why Major in Dairy and Animal Science?

The ever-increasing human population ensures a bright future for those who prepare themselves today for the challenge of providing tomorrow's food, fiber, and recreation for mankind. The animal and related industries are large and diverse and will require dynamic leaders for the 21st century.

The Dairy and Animal Science major is a four-year program of study leading to the bachelor of science degree. The program is designed to help students:

* develop expertise in the biology of animals
* obtain an understanding of the dairy, livestock and allied industries, and * prepare for a variety of career opportunities.

Courses of Study

At Penn State, the Dairy and Animal Science major gives the student flexibility to plan an individualized program consistent with his or her interests and profes-

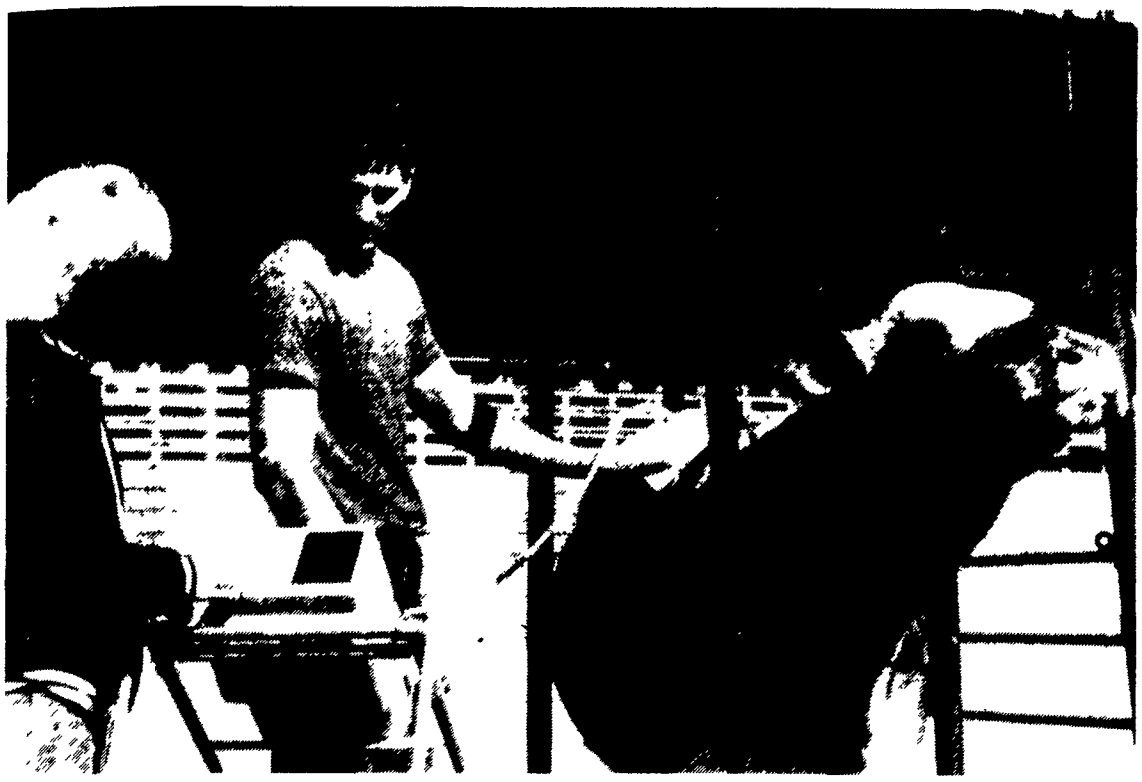
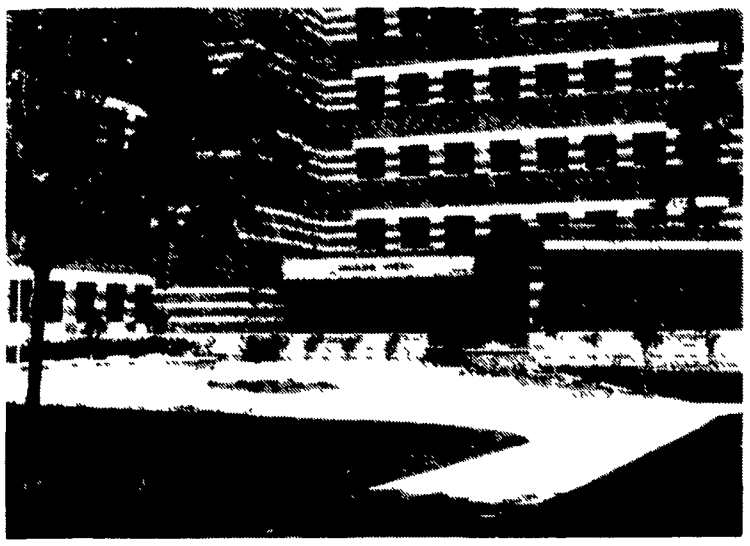
Football is a special attraction for Penn State students during the autumn season.

Computer accessibility throughout campus enables students to develop skills.

Activities affiliated with the university such as the Keystone Livestock International attract students from a variety of backgrounds.



Students are taught the most current ultrasound technology to estimate body composition, fat and muscle, in livestock.



The Agricultural Science and Industries Building, recently completed, houses five departments in the College of Agriculture and significantly upgrades the teaching, research and extension facilities of the College.

sional goals. Along with the help of a personal adviser, students can tailor programs to fit their educational and career objectives. Students select one of four options within the major:

* Business
* Science
* Dairy Production/ Management
* Animal Production/ Management

All four options require specific academic courses which develop basic and applied knowledge in nutrition, genetics. reproduction, business management, animal health, and milk and meat products.

The Business option is designed for those who want to combine an interest in animals with an emphasis on business. Courses are required in accounting, finance, marketing, information management systems, economic decision making, and business law. Career opportunities include agribusiness management. technical consulting and sales, and banking and lending.

The Science option provides an opportunity for in-depth study of the basic sciences relevant to animal biology. Courses are required in chemistry, biochemistry, mathematics, physiology, genetics, microbiology, and physics. Some graduates find entry-level employment opportunities in research laboratories or as technical service consultants. Others pursue advanced degrees in veterinary medicine or a variety of graduate programs leading to careers in teaching, extension, industry, and research.

The Dairy Production/ Management and Animal Production/Management options provide opportunities for in-depth study of those disciplines relating to the management of an animal production enterprise. Considerable emphasis is placed on nutrition, reproduction, herd health, and animal management. Additional courses are selected from agricultural economics, business, agricultural engineering, and agronomy. Career opportunities include form of: management, cooperative extension service, breed and artificial insemination services, and technical consulting and sales.

Facilities, Resources and Faculty

The Department of Dairy and and Animal Science is housed in two connecting buildings, Henning Building and Agricultural Sciences & Industries Building. These buildings are uniquely equipped with the latest in research and teaching laboratories, offices, computer laboratories, and classrooms. The research laboratories and offices in these buildings house various departments in The College, including: Dairy and Animal Science, Veterinary Science, Poultry Science, Entomology and Agronomy. Two computer laboratories, one IBM and one Apple, are located on the first floor of Ag. Sci. & Ind., along with a large auditorium, several smaller classrooms and a Learning Resource Center.

Located at the northeastern corner of campus on "Ag Hill", the faculty and students in the College of Agriculture and The Department of Dairy and Animal Science have easy-access to most of the interesting facilities on campus. The Penn State Creamery, world renowned for its tantilizing assortment of ice cream and dairy products, and the Agricultural Administration Building, office for the Spring features the Block and Bridle Club sponsored Little International Livestock Show. This provides students with an opportunity to demonstrate fitting and showing skills. The Dairy Science Club hosts the Dairy Exposition offering a similar experience to students with a dairy interest.

The Dairy Science Club in conjunction with the PA Holstein Association manage the Nittany Lion Fall Classic Holstein Sale in the Ag Arena.

The dairy cattle, livestock, meats and horse judging teams compete in regional and national intercollegiate judging contests.

Dean of the College of Agriculture and the Office for Resident Education, are within a block of The Department. The Ag Arena, home of several major agricultural events, and The Penn State Bookstore, convenient shopping for classroom and gift needs: as well as Jeffrey Field (soccer) and Beaver Stadium (football), intramural practice fields, the Intramural Building, McCoy Natatorium, Eisenhower Auditorium, and the soon-to-be constructed Athletic and Convocation Center are all located within a 10 minute walk from Ag Hill.

Most of the University-owned, Department-operated animal facilities, of which there are nine, are within 1.5 miles of the Henning/Ag. Sci. & Ind. complex. Only two animal units (Haller Pasture/Forage Research Farm and the Deer Pens) are located more than two miles from campus. The Beef Cattle Teaching and Research Units are home to the Penn State Polled Hereford, Simmental, Angus and crossbred herds. Penn State maintains about 35 mature Polled Hereford cows, 20 Simmental cows, 40 Angus cows and 80 crossbred cows for use in research, extension education and undergraduate education. One highlight is the Livestock Merchandising course featuring Angus cattle produced in the Penn State herd. Predominant Angus herdsires bred and raised at Penn State, include: PS Databank 511, PS Executive Order, PS Heritage 403, PS Mastermind 908, PS Franco 064 157, PS Sasquatch 904, PS High Pockets, and of course, PS Power Play, Supreme Champion at the 1979 All-American Angus Futurity with over 5500 daughters listed in AHIR production records.

The Sheep Teaching and Research Unit maintains approximately 200 crossbred ewes for research and classroom use, and is home to a nationally renowned Polled Dorset flock. Plans are to maintain about 125 mature Dorset ewes.

The Swine Teaching and Research Unit has approximately 65 brood sows divided among crossbreds, and purebred Yorkshires and Durocs.

The Horse Teaching Unit maintains about 25 Quarter Horse brood mares used solely for teaching purposes. Penn State was ranked as the sixth leading breeder of Quarter Horses worldwide in 1982. This was due principally to the AQHA points earned by the progeny of the noted, university-owned stud, Skip Sioux. The university is also the breeder of two-time national reigning horse champion, Glenda Echols. Penn State is the only university to have received these high distinctions.

Students are offered the opportunity to obtain hands-on work experience at all animal facilities, the Meat Laboratory, and research labs. Some of the units are equipped with student living quarters.

Extracurricular Acitivities

Penn State recognizes that extracurricular activities contribute to the development of a well-rounded individual. Extracurricular activities contribute to the total educational experience and are valued by prospective employers. The Department sponsors two of the most active undergraduate organizations on campus, and nationally -- The Penn State Block & Bridle Club and The Penn State Dairy Science Club. Club members develop leadership and interpersonal skills through alternate weekly meetings and committee work, make new friends, and have fun.

The clubs offer many activities throughout the year, including fund-raising projects, educational trips, service activities, and promotional and social events. Dairy Science Club activities include the Dairy Exposition, Nittany Lion Fall Classic Holstein Sale, Christmas Cheese Box Sale, and judging contests. Block & Bridle Club activities include the Little International Livestock Show, sausage and ham sales, and judging contests.

Club members are active and competitive in regional and national student professional organizations. The two clubs combine efforts for the Animal Products Spectacular, a showcase of dairy and animal products at a local shopping mall, and the Northeast Student Affiliate meetings of the American Society of Animal Science and the American Dairy Science Association. The dairy cattle, livestock, meats, and horse judging teams compete in regional and national intercollegiate judging contests.

Alumni Groups

Through the Penn State Dairymen's Club and the Penn State Stockmen's Club, the department maintains close contact with its alumni. Their reputations have helped build a better demand for future graduates. Alumni and other professionals in the dairy and livestock industries frequently visit campus for class discussions, lectures, and interviews with graduating seniors and students seeking summer employment or internships. Departmental contacts help many students with career placement. Position vacancies and employer directories are on file in the department's office of Student Services.

Financial Aid and Admissions

Scholarships represent a significant portion of the financial assistance provided students in the College of Agriculture. In 1990-91, The College had available more than $300,000 in scholarship monies for qualifying students. Loans, grants, and work-study opportunities are also available for freshmen and continuing students and are offered by the Department of Dairy and Animal Science, the College of Agriculture, and Penn State.

To obtain an application to Penn State and the College of Agriculture, write to Undergraduate Admissions Office, 201 Shields Building, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802. Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Baby-sitting! Our family has had a lot of experiences from both sides of the fence.

The first that I ever heard of this job was in the late 1930s when Mrs. Kunzler of hot dog fame asked me to be with their two children on New Year's Eve. I'm embarrased to say that at 3 a.m. when they came home, I was asleep on the sofa.

Our six children all had many jobs of this kind. Some families were known to have very naughty children.

One winter night, Nancy, our oldest tried to get two bad boys off of the ice on the Conestoga River after they were supposed to be in bed. The dark and ice were a treacherous situation. Another time a burglary took place next door to where another daughter was baby-sitting.

Our own experiences were as varied. My mother helped us until we had a third child and then she gave up the job. We asked a neighbor lady to come to our farm when we went square dancing.

One girl that our children liked was the daughter of Chris Kunzler who always came with new children's story books and read to them. Others had different things on their minds. One time we came home unexpectedly to find her entertaining her boyfriend on the sofa.

Because we did not realize what the noise of our water pipes knocking in the cellar would do to a stranger — she was scared all night long as we do live in an isolated place. This noise occurred whenever the cows drank at the barn. We were very sorry, but the damage was done and she did not come back. Gone are the days when I always prepared a dessert for the sitter and left it in the refrigerator.

What brought this whole subject up was being asked to take care of Bradley. He is the only one of our 10 grandchildren who lives in Lancaster County. We love to see him grow as he approaches 10 months of age.

Low-Fat Beef To Change The Way We Eat

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Low-fat ground beef (LFGB) will likely change the way health-conscious Americans eat. The beef industry is letting consumers know that LFGB is now available nationwide in supermarkets, fast food restaurants and foodservice operations.

One such event, a news conference in New York City, was designed to inform media about the product so they could inform consumers. So far, information on LFGB has been featured on such national television programs as CBS This Morning and World Business, a national cable news program, in Newsweek, and by Associated Press and Knight-Ridder news services. Additional coverage is expected as media and consumer interest in low-fat food products continues to grow.

It is estimated that more than 8,500 retail stores offer LFGB. It is available to consumers at supermarkets across the country including: Lucky's Stores, the largest supermarket chain in California; Ralph's Supermarket in California; Kroger in Ohio; Hy-Vee Food stores in Iowa; Winn-Dixie stores in Florida; and many others.

Restaurants offering LFGB include McDonald's and Hardee's and Burger King and Wendy's are considering the product. Other foodservice operations offering the product include: Sizzler; Canteen Corporation; Morrison's Custom Management; Disney's theme parks; and Kraft Foodservice. The product has also been tested for the National School Lunch Program.

"Americans eat about 7 billion pounds of ground beef products each year," said Mary Adolf, vice president of promotion at the Beef Industry Council. "This consumer demand is the reason the beef industry invested $373,000 from the checkoff into research programs to develop this product."

Charles K. Levitt, senior livestock analyst with Shearson Lehman Brothers said, "Today, consumers are telling producers what they want, which is leaner beef, and producers are responding. The percent of federally-inspected fed beef graded select last year was over 15 percent of the total graded, compared to only 2 percent in 1987."

"Whenever you take fat away from beef, texture, juiciness, and flavor is reduced," said Melvin C. Hunt, Ph.D., professor of meat science at Kansas State University. "Through beef industry research a number of alternate sources have been found that bind with ground beef and bring back those three properties that make a good burger."

Mary Abbott Hess, M.S., R.D., president of the American Dietetic Association, and Barbara Cope, chief of commodity procurement for the National School Lunch Program, USDA, were also on hand to answer questions about LFGB's healthfulness and its part in helping meet the new national dietary recommendations for children.

During the news conference a new brochure, "Low-fat Ground Beef: Ground Rules," was distributed to members of the media who attended. This consumer information brochure describes the composition and nutritional makeup of this leaner beef and gives tips for selection, storage and preparation.

This checkoff-funded press conference was sponsored on behalf of the beef industry by the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board, a federation of 44 state beef councils that works to build demand for beef through programs of promotion, research and consumer information.

Martha Stoner is one of the many persons who will sell her handiworks at the End of the Harvest Sale at the Leola Produce Auction on October 9, starting at 10 a.m. Martha makes corn brooms decorated with silk and dried flowers and fabric rose arrangements. Other items such as pumpkin creations, squash, gourds, Indian corn, Indian fingers, and corn dolls will be available at the auction located on Brethren Church Road in Leola.

Meat Education Materials Available

GAINESVILLE, Fl. — "The Consumer's Choice Lean Meat Education Program" explains the selection, preparation, handling, storage and nutrient value of beef, lamb, pork, and veal for the consumer, food professional, media and educators. The 189-page manual, compiled by researchers at three universities and the USDA, is available from the University of Florida.

Five modules cover safe, wholesome meat production; nutrition; meat cuts and lean meat shopping; meat preparation, handling and storage; and wise selection of convenience products. Five glossy color sheets explain meat cuts for beef, pork, veal, and lamb. Hand-outs, supplementary material resource list, and references are added for educators.

The manual can be used by consumers, in education programs or as an information source for media, food professionals, and interested organizations. It is a cooperative effort of Extension specialists from the University of Florida, Kansas State University, and Texas A&M University. Commodity and health organization representatives helped develop, review and pilot test the project. To order, send $17 in check or money order for "Meat Modules SP-75" to Bldg. 664, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL 32611. Florida residents add 6% state sales tax.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Louisa Berndt, Oley, wanted a recipe for salisbury steak with gravy. Thanks to Patricia Knepper, New Holland, for sending a recipe that she said goes well with golden mushroom soup. Also, thanks to C.L. Wilson, Silver Spring, Md., and to Martin Roy, Warrenton, Va., who sent different recipes.

Salisbury Steak

2 pounds ground beef
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
1 cup onion, chopped
6 crackers, broken and soaked in milk
1 teaspoon parsley
⅛ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon basil

Mix together all ingredients. Shape into oblong patties and brown slowly in skillet. Place in a baking dish. Make gravy from the pan drippings and pour over patties. Bake 300 degrees for 45 minutes.

Salisbury Steak And Gravy

⅓ cup small diced onions
1 tablespoon margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup long rain rice, cooked (measure when cooked)
1¾ pounds ground beef
1 envelope Onion soup mix

If you don't like rice, omit the rice and use the following ingredients:

1½ teaspoons chicken base
¾ cup cold water
1½ cups fresh bread crumbs or cubes

Saute onions in margarine until tender. Don't brown. Add salt and pepper to onions. Combine beef, rice, and onion mixture. Divide mixture into 6 to 8 equal portions, shape into steaks.

Fry steaks in frying pan over moderately low heat until meat becomes pink and juicy around the edges. Turn meat over. Cook until done. Never press with spatula while cooking. Keep steaks warm. Make envelope of onion soup mix as directed on package for onion gravy. Pour onion gravy over hot steaks and serve.

If not using rice, mix chicken base in cold water. Combine ground beef, bread crumbs, onion mixture, and chicken base. Form into steaks. Prepare as above.

ANSWER — Don Tamutus of Hamilton Township, N.J., requested a recipe for tomato pie. Thanks to Gertrude Haas, Lenhartsville; Jennifer Rake, East Stroudsburg, and to Lois Butz, Appenzell, for sending recipes.

Cheese Tomato Pie

Slice 10 medium-sized tomatoes and lay on paper towel. Salt lightly and place another paper towel on top. In baked pie crust layer the following:

2 cups Swiss cheese
Tomatoes

Sprinkle with thyme, coarse black pepper, and parsley

Drizzle 1 tablespoon olive oil on top.

Bake pie at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. May try other cheeses instead of the Swiss.

Tomato & Onion Pie

½ cup milk
4 tablespoons butter
1 package quick-rise yeast
2¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt
2 eggs
4 large onions
2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
¾ pound Swiss cheese
5 medium-sized tomatoes
½ cup pitted ripe olives
1 tablespoon dijon mustard
1 tablespoon Italian seasonings

In 2-quart saucepan over low heat, heat milk and butter until very warm. In large bowl, combine yeast, flour, sugar, and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir warm milk mixture into flour mixture; add eggs and stir until well blended. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, 1 hour.

Meanwhile, prepare vegetables for filling. Cut each onion lengthwise in half, cut each crosswise into ½ -inch slices. In skillet, over medium heat in hot oil and ½ teaspoon salt, cook onions until tender, 20 minutes.

While onions are cooking, shred cheese and cut tomatoes. Cut olives in wedges.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease pie plate. When dough has risen, with rubber spatula, stir down dough, turn into pie plate, press dough over bottom-up side of dish.

Spread mustard over bottom of dough, top with onions, tomatoes, cheese. Arrange remaining tomatoes, seasonings and olives on top. Bake 1 hour or until crust is golden brown and pulls away from side of dish. Serves 6.

Green Tomato Pie

1¼ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons nutmeg
2 tablespoons tapioca
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar
½ stick butter.
Green tomatoes sliced about ½ -inch thick.
2 pie crusts

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Mix dry ingredients in a bowl. Mix well. Spread a thin layer of tomatoes in bottom of pie shell. Sprinkle mixture on top. Alternate tomatoes and mixture until all is used. Sprinkle lemon juice or vinegar on top along with thinly sliced butter pats. Put on top crust and bake for 45 to 50 minutes. Vent top crust in center. Eat warm or cold. Serve as a luncheon dish or as dessert.

What Are Kids Eating?

Two recent studies investigating the diets of children report that 14% of their calorie intake comes from saturated fat, higher than the 10% recommended by NCEP. Since good eating habits start in childhood, it makes sense to encourage wise food choices at an early age. By limiting rich desserts, high-fat snacks and "empty-calorie" sweets, parents can not only help their children establish a healthful lifestyle but can also reap the benefits themselves.

Eggs provide excellent nutrition for children. Their protein is of high quality. They're low in saturated fat and calories and contain a plentiful supply of vitamins and minerals. Most children like eggs, too!

FARM MANAGEMENT

SELECTING A COMPUTER FOR YOUR FARM BUSINESS

Duane L. Stevenson, Jr.
Multi-County Farm Management Agent
Northampton County

Today, personal computers can be found in many small businesses and on farms. A growing number of people are less intimidated by them and, in many cases, work quite comfortably with computers.

Computers have also become quite affordable in recent years. Those commonly used on farms can range in price from $1,000 and up. Computers even at the low price end can handle word processing, spreadsheets, accounting, and other agricultural-related software.

Purchasing A Computer

The first step in purchasing a computer system is to evaluate your needs. What do you need the computer to do for you?

As you begin to look at systems, you may be surprised by what computers are capable of doing.

It is important that you shop around. The computer business is very competitive. The prices are continually falling as advancement in technology takes place and equipment is often discounted from suggested retail list prices.

Some stores may offer greater discounts, but you may lose service or support after the sale. Other stores may have higher prices, but provide you with support after the sale.

Since a computer is complicated, it is important that you find a reputable dealer that can provide you with adequate service and support, especially if you have no previous experience with computers.

Do not accept at face value everything a salesperson tells you. Ask questions. If the salesman claims that the machine can perform a certain function, ask to see a demonstration. Often times, sales clerks do not know enough about the equipment that they are selling.

Be aware that the various brands of microcomputers are not always compatible. Sometimes a computer software program designed for one brand will work on another manufacturer's machine, but this is usually not the case.

To avoid potential problems, think through your software needs first, then choose the hardware to match. If compatibility between various computer brands is important to you, make sure you see a demonstration.

What a Computer Can Do

The computer can be a replacement for a file cabinet for farm business records by offering convenient and orderly record storage. This application can give a more convenient access to important documents related to the farm.

A hundred and fifty or more typed pages of text, data, or records can be stored on one 3-½ inch computer diskette, which costs less than $2.

For example, breeding records for dairy cows may be stored on one diskette. With a computer, you have the capability to sort the data and create a listing for when cows are expected to calve. Computers are very useful to look at a specific portion of a large amount of data or categorize the data in different ways.

With the proper instructions and knowledge, you can also use the computer as a financial accounting system for the farm business. Using a financial software package would enable you to obtain summaries of your farm accounting information, which would be useful for business decision-making.

By using this record package, one could keep track of the various kinds of inputs or expenses utilized in the farm operation. For example, this software can quickly provide you with a summary of how much you spent on a particular expense such as fertilizer. Or the program may be able to provide you with a detailed summary of both income and expenses for each farm enterprise.

The computer can be used to solve practical problems on the farm. It is extremely useful in situations requiring complicated calculations or many repetitive calculations. You can perform tasks that you might not want to attempt on a hand calculator. Some might require you to write your own set of instructions for doing the necessary calculations you desire.

You can use the computer as a word processor, a sophisticated office typewriter. Letters and other documents can be viewed on the screen and corrections or changes can be made easily without retyping the whole text. This feature requires a word processing software program, and there are several reasonably priced programs on the market.

Finally, a computer can serve as a link to other computers. For example, by adding a modem you can use it to obtain price and market information from data stored in another computer, even one located in other state. Computers can be connected through long distance telephone lines.

Servicing

A final consideration in the purchase of a farm business computer is servicing. Often, repairs of computers are inexpensive and can be done in your home. However, you will need an accessible repair shop for more serious problems.

Most computer manufacturers provide free service for only three months, an the user often must take the machine to the shop for repair. Service contracts may be obtained on some computers to cover repair problems that arise.

Keep in mind to read the contracts and computer warrantees thoroughly prior to purchasing or selecting the brand of computer of your choice.

This high-capacity tub grinder is suited for grinding big round bales, square bales, loose hay, stover, small grain, or ear corn.

New Tub Grinder

EXCELSIOR, Minn. — A rugged, high-capacity tub grinder suited for grinding big round bales, square bales, loose hay, stover, small grain or ear corn has been introduced by Farmhand, Inc.

The PTO model CG7000 tub grinder can be powered by a 150 to 200 horsepower tractor, a diesel engine mounted on a portable trailer, or an electric motor. A 200 horsepower self-contained engine model CG7000 is also available.

Grinding is done by a rugged hammermill rotor with hard-faced, reversible hammers. Materials are ground in two-stages as hammers first slice across the Dewumper shear bar, then force material through a screen. Sixteen screens with openings from 1/4 inch to 4 inches are available.

The CG7000 uses efficient hydraulic motors to drive the tub, the undermill conveyor, and the discharge elevator. An electric load controller regulates infeeding to the rotor and assures smooth, continuous grinding under all load conditions.

The Farmhand CG7000 is manufactured in Grinell, Iowa. For more information, contact Farmhand, Inc., Box 1500, Excelsior, NM 55331 or call the sales center at (515) 236-6571.

Combine Adjusts To Rolling Land, 18-Percent Slopes

MOLINE, Ill. — In response to the needs of grain producers who farm rolling land and up to 18 percent slopes, John Deere has announced its new SideHill 9500 combine.

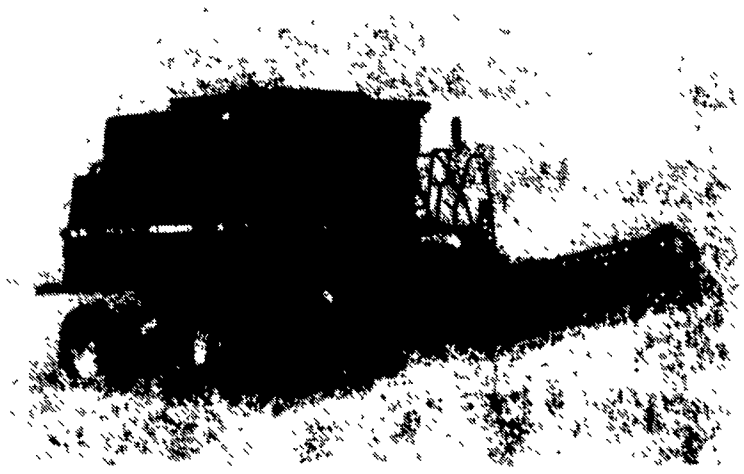
This 235-horsepower machine provides all the harvesting capabilities of Deere's Maximizer combines plus added productivity, capacity, and operator comfort when harvesting on sidehills.

Deere plans to begin production of the SideHill 9500 in early 1992 on a "build-to-order" basis.

The SideHill 9500 combine with its automatic leveling system provides several performance advantages on sloping terrain. The combine body remains level, which distributes weight evenly to the drive wheels. This increases productivity in wet conditions by providing greater mobility to more easily stay on rows when working slick, muddy side slopes. The even weight distribution also decreases the chances of getting stuck.

Maximum threshing and separating capacity is provided because the crop handling and processing elements from the feeder house to the straw walkers also remain level. As a result, more threshed crop goes in the grain tank with less loss on the ground. And, a level grain tank means more grain carrying capacity and fewer stops to unload.

Operator comfort is another important factor in overall combine productivity. The SideHill 9500 keeps the cab level when working on sloping terrain to help maintain a high degree of operator comfort and productivity similar to harvesting on level land.



The 235-hp John Deere Sidehill 9500 combine features an automatic leveling system that minimizes grain losses and enhances operator comfort when harvesting on sloping terrain.

The leveling system also controls the positioning of the header, allowing it to follow the contour of the field automatically for ease of operation and a more consistent cutting height.

The automatic leveling system enables the combine to harvest at speeds similar to level-land operation. This gives the machine a distinct productivity advantage over level-land combines on slopes and rolling land.

The SideHill 9500 senses slopes in one-degree increments, which permits smooth, fast responses to changes in terrain. The hydraulic pump has ample capacity so the leveling system and other hydraulic functions on the combine can operate simultaneously. If desired, the operator can easily override the automatic leveling system with the push of a button.

The combine is powered by a turbocharged, air-to-air aftercooled, 7.6 L John Deere diesel. The electronic governor features a power boost which increases engine output to 250 horsepower, if needed, when unloading on-the-go.

Other features of the SideHill 9500 include an adjustable rear axle with dual steering cylinders for power and precise control. The rear axle is available with optional four-wheel drive that delivers added tractive effort in tough conditions.

A variable-speed feeder house with reverser is standard equipment. Most options and dealer-installed attachments for the Maximizer level-land combgine are available for the SideHill 9500.

Recommended headers include the model 444 or 643 corn head, 454A or 653A row-crop head, 912 or 914 belt pickup, and 915, 920, and 925 rigid or flexible platforms.

Kubota Debuts L-Series Tractors

COMPTON, Calif. — Kubota Tractor Corporation has added five models to its popular L-Series tractor lineup

The new L2350 model and the additional clutch and transmission packages available on the L2650, L2950, L3450 and L3650 models give even greater range to the L-Series line.

Designed with economy in mind, the 20.5 PTO horsepower L2350 is equipped with the basic features needed for efficiency in standard agricultural and light construction applications. The tractor's performance is enhanced by power steering and durable, wet disc brakes. Both two-wheel drive and four-wheel drive models are available, with standard gear transmissions for eight forward and two reverse speeds.

Increased capabilities and top performance are hallmarks of Kubota's upgraded L2650, L2950, L3450 and L3650 tractors, which range from 23.5 to 33.0 PTO horsepower. Featuring standard and GST type transmissions, the new L-Series additions are ideal for farm and nursery applications.

Standard on the new L2650 through L3650 models are rugged Kubota diesel engines, hydrostatic power steering (four-wheel drive models) and enhanced hydraulic power. The semi-independent mid-PTO can be disengaged while the rear PTO is in operation.

Kubota's exclusive glideshift transmission (GST) is now available on the L2650, L2950, and L3450 tractors, providing clutchless shifting through eight forward and eight reverse gears.

Compatible loaders and mowers head up an extensive list of implements that includes backhoes, tillers, post hole diggers, rear mount mowers, rotary cutters, snowblowers, box scrapers, rear blades, and front blades.

These new tractors expand the diverse L-Series line, which also features models with Kubota's Ever Clutch, a wet clutch disc system that operates immersed in oil.

For more information, contact Kubota Tractor Corporation, at 550 West Artesia Blvd., Compton, CA 90220

SOW FEEDING SYSTEMS

Feeding systems for sows in gestation vary from one farm to another. While most producers feed on a daily basis, some offer feed every second or third day.

Some producers are even considering automated electronic feeding systems. And with the short corn supply this year, all of these systems may get a new twist as folks look at ways to incorporate silage and haylage into their feeding programs.

Daily Feeding Program

This is the nothing-fancy feeding system. You decide how much feed sows need for your conditions and offer that amount each day throughout pregnancy.

When sows are housed in individual stalls, this program is hard to beat. You see each sow eating. You can tailor the feed amount to her needs. Even with the automatic ("surprise") drop systems, individual changes are a breeze.

But these advantages come unraveled when you house sows in groups. Every group has a sow or two dominant enough to get more than her share. And the timid few (which are usually too thin already) are cheated out of their daily allotment.

Reducing the number of sows in each pen helps. Sorting and penning sows by size also reduces competition. But for producers who have had no luck with any of these alternatives, interval feeding may be the next best choice.

Interval Feeding

Interval feeding is simply offering a larger amount less often. Remember, the competition problem arises from the fact that sows are always hungry — so hungry, in fact, that five pounds per day isn't enough to fill a sow's appetite, even though it's plenty to meet her nutritional needs.

So by feeding each sow 10 pounds every other day, or 15 pounds every third day, even the hungriest sows lose their aggression. And producers observe that interval feeding is a pretty effective method for equalizing feed intake.

Within a week or so after beginning an interval feeding program, producers find that the sows adjust. Walk through the barn with a feed cart on the "off day" and most sows won't even get up. Studies show that sow productivity is the same for both daily and interval feeding systems.

Using A Self-Feeder

This system generally works on the same principle as interval feeding. But instead of offering a specific amount of feed every two or three days, sows have access to a self feeder every second or third day.

Since feeding spaces will be limited at the feeder, the most aggressive sows line up at the feeder first. But once they've had their fill, the more timid sows have a chance to eat.

The amount of time you provide for the sows varies with the number in the pen and size of the feeder. Most producers operate on an every-third-day feeding program.

I have seen a few using the feeder every second day, but you need to limit the time on the feeder or sows will get too fat.

These self-feeding guidelines are based on using typical high-energy corn soybean meal diets. But you can also put sows on a bulky diet such as the one shown below, and the fiber will help to limit energy intake.

This high-fiber routine is not as foolproof as interval feeding or even the prescribed time on the feeder, since you don't have as much control and some sows may still over-consume.

Silage And Haylage

Sows in gestation function well on corn silage diets. Interest in this system has been higher than normal this year with the poor corn crop.

Whether feeding a legume haylage, or corn silage, you should offer it free choice. Sows will normally consume about six to eight pounds of legume haylage and about eight to 10 pounds of corn silage. In both cases, dry feed requirements will be reduced by roughly 3.5 pounds per sow per day.

In addition to the silage or haylage, one of the following diets should be fed at the rate of 2.5 pounds per sow per day:

You'll note the nutrient levels are a little unusual. This is done to adjust for the nutrients in the silage or haylage and the low dry feed intake.

For more details on these formulations, refer to Fact Sheet PIH-126 in the Pork Industry Handbook.

Will silage be economical? It might if you have an adequate supply and if the feeding equipment is already in place. If you have to install special storage and handling equipment, the savings in feed cost won't offset the equipment investment unless the system is used long-term.

Electronic Sow Feeders

These systems have been getting attention in the popular press in recent years. The equipment uses a single feeding station for roughly 50 sows.

As the sow enters the station, a computer reads her number from a collar that she wears and meters out feed and water. She can enter the feeder as often as she wants, but if she's already eaten her daily allotment, she'll receive nothing until the following day.

The system has been getting mixed reactions. On the plus side, sow feed intake can be easily adjusted and monitored on an individual basis.

Research studies show that sow performance is also mixed. For example, the University of Illinois found that stillbirth rates were higher among sows fed with electronic feeders than those in individual stalls.

Purdue University found that sows on the computer system weaned slightly heavier litters that those in gestation crates or those fed in intervals. A study from the U.K. shows that sows fed with electronic feeders had a slightly higher (.3 pigs) number born live than those housed in open lots. Also, farrowing rate was higher for sows fed by the electronic feeder than that of sows housed outside or in gestation crates. But both Purdue University and the University of Guelph have documented higher culling rates on the electronic feeding system.

In addition to the $150 or $160 investment per sow, a major drawback seems to be labor. It takes time to train the sows to use the feeder (some gilts never learn the system). And collar losses can be annoying, especially with younger sows.

Originally, many thought of it as a humane system to house sows in dynamic groups, while maintaining individual care. But it's turned out, according to Abe Fisher of Hess Mills, to be "an animal welfare disaster."

First, because of the large group size, sows are coming and going every week. So the fighting never stops. Also some sows do a lot of biting, pushing, and shoving at the feeder to try and get another sow's share.

Summary

1. The most effective feeding programs are the ones that enable producers to maintain control of sow feed intake. For some operations — like those with gestation crates — that will be a simple daily feeding routine. But for other producers with limited feeding space, feeding sows every second or third day may be the only way to prevent fat sows from getting fatter and thin sows from getting thinner.

2. Silage and haylage can be used successfully for sows in gestation. Under some conditions, it may even save on feeding costs. Be sure to formulate your dry feed diets to correctly supplement what the sow is getting in the forage.

3. Electronic feeders are another system that can be used to feed sows, but it does not offer any strong advantages over existing systems. Only time will tell if it's adopted on a large scale in the U.S.

YORK (YORK CO.)— York County 4-H swine and sheep members held their annual roundup show and sale September 15 - 16 at Weikert's Livestock Buying Station, Thomasville. Tabitha Ebersole, York, captured top honors in the market lamb competition with her 120 pound market lamb. Just a week earlier, Ebersole won the grand champion market lamb title at York Fair. Judge Jim Black, Newville, selected Ebersole's lamb for the top spot at the annual roundup event and the lamb sold for $4.80/pound to Dr. Thomas Ryscavage of Orthopedic Associates of York. TURKEY HEMORRHAGIC ENTERITIS (OR HOW A DISEASE CHANGES OVER TIME)

Donald L. Singletary
Department of Veterinary Science

During the 1960s, hemorrhagic enteritis (HE) caused significant losses in the turkey industry.

The disease, then in its typical form, caused high mortality with a characteristic severe bloody enteritis. Affected turkeys ranged in age from four to 12 weeks of age with mortality over 50 percent in the worst cases. Generally, one could expect to lose 10 to 15 percent of a flock in a typical outbreak.

The disease struck suddenly. "Sick birds" were not usually observed. The finding of nice birds dead with good weight which were eating was often the first sign of a HE problem.

Dead birds were typically very pale in appearance. It was not unusual for birds to bleed from the vent when the abdomen was squeezed. When autopsied, the intestines were found to be distended with bloody debris of a raspberry-like consistency. The spleen was swollen and mottled.

Fortunately the disease ran its course in 10 to 14 days. The worst was usually over in a week.

Hemorrhagic enteritis is caused by an adenovirus. And incidentally, the same or similar virus causes marble spleen disease in pheasants and enlarged spleens in chickens.

There was no effective antibiotic treatment available and no vaccine to prevent the disease.

HE Today

Production and management changes along with the development of vaccines have been effective in reducing and changing the nature of hemorrhagic enteritis. Nowadays, HE rarely produces the high mortality and bloody diarrhea seen in the 1960s.

The most frequent and serious problem now is the immunosuppression produced by HE, which leads to secondary infections, such as E. coli septicemia. The first vaccines developed were particularly damaging to the bird's ability to fight off these secondary infections. Because of this problem, it was recommended that an antibiotic be given for 10 days in the feed following vaccination.

However, manufacturers of the current vaccines claim that immunosuppression is not a major problem and that there is no need to use an antibiotic following vaccination. They stress that it is important to time HE vaccination so that any HE antibodies received from the hen have dropped to a level which won't interfere with the vaccine. Thus, vaccination at four to six weeks of age is generally recommended. The vaccine is given in the drinking water.

Hemorrhagic enteritis, once a serious, costly disease of the turkey industry, has changed to become much less of a threat.

ASA Registers Milestone

BOZEMAN, Mont. — The American Simmental Association (ASA) has attained another significant registration milestone, issuing its 1,500,000th certificate recently.

Owners of the honored purebred Simmental bull, "FN46Z," a son of "2J Poll Siegfried N75," are Floyd and Deanna Nelson of Glasgow, Mont.

FN46Z was born on April 10, 1990, and his pedigree is laced with the names of such well-known, performance-proven Simmental sires as Siegfried, Ueli, Achilles, Signal, Extra, Lacombe Achilles, and Saxo. He has already been sold to a Hereford breeder in Texas.

"We want to offer our congratulations to the Nelsons," said ASA Executive Vice President Brian Kitchen. "It is interesting to note that they submitted 50 head of yearling bulls to be registered and the 1,500,000th certificate was assigned, in sequence by the computer, while their herd was being processed."

ASA registered its first animal on April 13, 1970 to the imported French bull "Parisien," who also held registration number 1 in the Canadian herdbook. A total of 346 registrations were issued in that year. Since that time, ASA has averaged 71,429 registrations annually.

Registration number 250,000 was assigned in 1975, while the 500,000th was recorded in 1979. ASA reached the 1,000,000 mark on April 20, 1985, earning the distinction of having reached that important milestone more rapidly than any other beef breed association. The one millionth animal was a yearling heifer from the Lowell Keller herd of Mandan, N.D.

Combines Have Greatly Simplified Design

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Deutz-Allis introduced a new, completely re-engineered series of rotary Gleaner® combines.

The new combine series is based on a greatly simplified design for easier servicing and improved reliability, according to John M. Shumejda, senior vice president, operations. "There will be much greater parts commonality, which will speed delivery of replacement parts," he said. "Many features that were options will now be standard, and almost all options will be factory installed for greater reliability."

The combines in the new Gleaner® series, from smallest to largest, are the Class IV R42, Class V R52, Class VI R62, and Class VII R72. They replace the R40, R50, R60, and R70 in the Deutz-Allis line of rotary combines.

The design of the new combine was based on surveys of hundreds of combine owners to find out what changes and improvements they would like to see in their next machines.

The R62 and R72 have 25 percent fewer drives than previous R60 and R70 Gleaners®, making it easier to service and replace wear items. Belts and hoses are designed to be changed in less than 20 minutes. The R62 and R72 combines offer greater service access and have 33 percent fewer lubrication points than the R60 and R70.

The roomy new ComforTech™ cab is 8 inches longer at the floor of more stretch-out legroom and 10 inches wider than any previous model — wide enough to accommodate two people with the new, larger instructor seat.

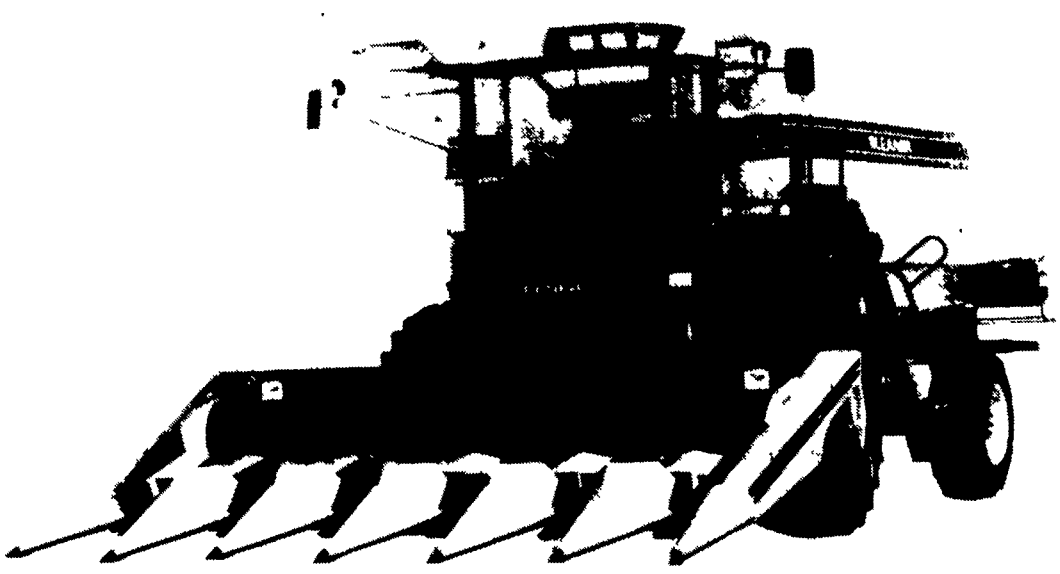
The ComforTech™ cab is designed to be the quietest in the industry. Operator-comfort features include a new air ride seat that automatically adjusts to the operator's weight. A tilt, telescoping steering wheel is standard with a digital readout module on the steering column. The module allows the operator to monitor engine speed, ground speed, cylinder speed or fuel level without looking up or away from the cutter bar or corn rows.

The operator views his work through 62 square feet of glass — 15 percent more than is offered in any competing combine — with no front corner pillars to obstruct the view of the header. The entire cutter span of a 30 foot header is easily seen at all times. Full length side glass makes it easy to see behind the header to check stubble height. The right-hand window can be opened fully for easy access to the console.

State-of-the-art, solar controlled blue tinted glass keeps the cab 10 percent cooler than competing cabs. Large rectangular mirrors allow the operator to view the rear of the combine — other big mirrors allow easy monitoring of the bin.

At night, a battery of nine 55-watt quartz-halogen lights with sealed lenses provides light for the field, the header and for unloading the grain bin. Safety was a prime design consideration. A seat switch turns off the header and bin unloader and disengages the separator drive after a seven-second delay. And a new hand-lever parking brake makes exiting the combine easier and safer.

The combines use the proven Deutz-Allis "natural flow" crop handling system with enlongated feeder housing for better accessibility. The elongated feeder housing also improves visibility behind the header, making it easier to set the header to the proper cutting height.



Typical of the new, completely re-engineered series of rotary Gleaner® combines introduced by Deutz-Allis is the Class V R52. Other combines in the new line include the Class IV R42, Class VI R62, and the Class VII R72. They replace the R40, R50, R60 and R70 rotary combines.

1991 BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds
BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.
ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that
- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

If The Forage You Chop Is Drought-Stressed.... Test It For Nitrates
Drought-stricken fields of corn, sorghum and legumes are most apt to contain harmful levels of nitrate, particularly those that have been heavily fertilized with manure or nitrogen fertilizer.
Excessive levels of nitrates can cause lower production, reproduction problems or even death.
We are a full service testing laboratory. Contact us at our toll-free number 1-800-659-7542 for price list and sample mailers.

Action Needed To Combat Unfair Competition

Washington, D.C. — Testifying before the House Committee on Agriculture, National Council of Farmer Cooperatives President Wayne Boutwell called for "immediate action" to combat unfair competition and respond to international food needs, including within the Soviet Union.

"The full range of programs and authorities contained in the 1990 Farm Bill should be immediately and aggressively implemented," he emphasized.

"Second," he added, "these programs should be fully funded as authorized and any restrictions eliminated which threaten their ability to be effectively utilized to achieve their objectives."

"Third," he stressed, "current policies relating to production adjustments and inventory management should be immediately reevaluated to further ensure that adequate resources are available to carry-out existing and needed export and international assistance programs, while maintaining adequate safeguards for farm income."

Reviewing the current situation facing U.S. agriculture, Boutwell noted it has been 5 years since efforts began to reach a trade agreement under the Uruguay Round of GATT. During that time, he said, competition has become even more intense. In fact, he added, U.S. agriculture's share of the world market for many commodities has actually declined as other countries, especially the EC, have continued to engage in unfair trade practices.

Another example of how U.S. agriculture has lost ground against the European Community, Boutwell said, was highlighted by a report prepared by the international Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). The report noted that since 1987, the EC had not reduced their overall level of support for agriculture, while U.S. agriculture on an equivalent basis had suffered more than a 20 percent decline.

"This is the equivalent of unilateral disarmament and explains perhaps why the EC has not been anxious to reach any new trade agreement," Boutwell concluded.

Another challenge facing U.S. agriculture, Boutwell said, is how to respond to the added demands brought about by sweeping changes in Central and Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, and other emerging democracies in terms of helping meet their immediate food needs, and in the long run, assisting in their transition to a more market-oriented economy.

The problem, Boutwell pointed out, is that a significant percentage of U.S. agriculture's productive capacity remains idled under various acreage programs which, when combined with various export programs, have succeeded in reducing the availability of needed commodities. Stocks-to-use ratios for wheat and feedgrains, he said, are now at their lowest levels since the 1970's and government stocks are virtually non-existent.

As a result, Boutwell added, this has left consumers and producers alike vulnerable to increased price volatility and threatened the continued operation of many of the programs now in place to respond to unfair competition, provide humanitarian assistance, and promote overseas economic and market development.

"What is needed now more than ever," the Council President concluded, "is a clear signal by our government that the U.S. remains committed to a policy of challenging unfair competition through every available means, while maintaining its ability to meet humanitarian needs and provide support for economic and market development activities."

Young Couple Facing Tough Times, Depends On Cooperative Strength

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

EAST BERLIN (Adams Co.)— "We are part of a generation that was not here when cooperatives were being formed. We take them for granted. We could lose them if we aren't careful."

Karen and Kevin Holtzinger, who recently voiced that sentiment, are agricultural cooperative enthusiasts. As member-owner-users of at least a half dozen ag co-ops, they have a major stake in the success or failure of the cooperative business system.

"Cooperatives provide some safety in numbers as farmers work together," said the East Berlin young couple.

The Holtzingers make farm decisions together. Here they discuss the merits of a newly fresh member of the their milking herd.

The Holtzingers were named Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's young cooperator couple at the Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation contest, held in late June at Rockville, Md. With that selection comes the opportunity to attend ADC board meetings, plan educational programs with other couples on the young cooperator committee and attend various local district meetings.

Karen and Kevin are to also take part in ADC's November annual meeting at Lancaster, and represent ADC in the young cooperator activities of the National Milk Producers Federation annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., during early December.

Cooperative participation, however, is not new to the Holtzingers. Kevin has been an alternate district delegate to Atlantic's annual meeting. Having gotten to know board members and staff better through their participation in the young cooperator program, they said they feel more comfortable now calling individuals with questions and concerns.

"We do speak up and state our opinions," Karen said.

Karen and Kevin Holtzinger catch a break in the barn office between milking and other barn chores.

Both grew up on local dairy farms, Karen in Adams County and Kevin in York County. He began dairying on his own in 1978, a year after graduating from high school. At a rented farm near Windsor, he milked 110 cows and kept a small line of equipment.

October Hailed As Cooperative Month

STATE COLLEGE: (Centre Co.) — Throughout the United States, October is being heralded as National Co-op Month in an effort to raise consciousness about the cooperative business system and it's role in our nation's economy.

Across the Country, at least 100 million people are members of 45,000 cooperatives which exist in virtually every industry from child care to housing, from credit services to utilities, and from health care to food stores.

"In Pennsylvania, agricultural and rural cooperatives represent thousands of farmer producers, rural electric consumers and borrowers," says Jay Rush, President of York Farm Credit and the PA Council of Cooperatives. "Cooperatives mean business for all of us."

Cooperatives remain strong because of several business principles common to all, including open and voluntary membership, democratic control, limited investment, and return of surplus to members.

During October, the National Planning Committee for Cooperative Month recognizes those individuals that have contributed to the growth of America's Cooperatives. Awards include: Cooperative Stateman, Public Service, Cooperative Communications, Cooperative Education, Cooperative Career, International Cooperative Development, and Theme Award.

This year, Pennsylvania is proud to honor Hal F. Doran, retiring Director of Penn State's Cooperative Business Education Program. Doran has served cooperatives for nearly a half-century.

Rural electric cooperatives

Rural electric cooperatives have been providing low-cost electric service to Pennsylvania rural residents since 1936, when the Steamburg Electric Cooperative Association (later consolidated into Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative) was established in Crawford and Erie counties.

Today, rural electric cooperatives in Pennsylvania are providing reliable electric service to many rural residents in numerous counties. Many rural electric co-ops are involved in economic growth efforts and community programs to meet rural needs.

Rural electric cooperatives are owned and controlled by the people they serve. The consumers who receive electricity from them are cooperative members, and share responsibility for the success of the cooperative.

The following Rural Electric Cooperatives are proud to be a part of the 1991 Co-Op Month Campaign.

The Holtzinger family on their farm — Kevin and Karen, their daughter Shannon, and her favorite baby calf.

Three years later, Kevin bought his father's 122 acre farm west of East Berlin, combining two herds into a 200-head milking string. He purchased an adjoining 131-acre farm six months later.

A fire in August, 1984, caused serious damage to part of the farm's cattle facilities and destroyed 8,000 bales of hay and straw. Clean-up and some repairs allowed for continued use of the parlor, but the holding area remained without a roof.

Ashcombe Dairy, near Dover in northern York County, closed its dairy business in 1986. Looking for a way to expand cash flow by milking more cows, without a large capital investment, the couple decided to lease the Ashcombe facility for a second milking herd.

The 230 cows at the Dover operation were kept completely separate from the East Berlin 125-head milking string. Heifers were all raised at the home farm.

For three years, they managed -- and sometimes milked at -- both farms, 13 miles apart. For awhile, Karen milked a shift at both herds.

"Karen and I would pass each other on the road in the morning and drag into the house at night," Kevin reflected on that stretch of time. A car accident Karen had on a commute between the two herds helped finalize some decisions.

"We decided in August of 1989 to regroup and consolidate the herds, to go for a little less volume and better quality," explained Kevin. "The bottoms of both herds were trimmed and we put them all at Dover, since conditions at the home farm had been less than desirable since the fire."

Hot weather, water quality problems and poor quality forage due to weather conditions all limited production improvements the first year the herds were combined. Production of the 265 head

October Is Co-op Month.

Cooperative Organizations and institutions play an important role in meeting the needs of our citizens and in improving our communities. They are among our leading business enterprises, with millions of owner members.

Many benefits are gained by belonging to cooperatives and many contributions are made by these special institutions to the economy and development of our state and nation.

The Seven Milk Cooperatives serving the dairy farmers in Pennsylvania and neighboring states are proud to be a part of this great cooperative enterprise.

has since climbed to an average of 18,000 milk with 650 fat and 566 protein.

Their lease at Ashcombe expires in 18 months and the Holtzingers have plans underway to again relocate the herd -- back home.

Remodeling and expansion of their original facility will provide adequate space for both the milking herd and raising young stock and alleviate the daily travel. To hold down labor needs, a one-person, double-10 parlor with automatic takeoffs is planned.

"I've looked at a lot of new facilities and ideas, everything from slotted floors to alley scrapers to cow mattresses. We've been discussing rainbirds to pre-wash cows before they come in the parlor and if we have the volume of water for something like that," Kevin said of their facility planning.

Quality continues to be a major factor in planning. Mastitis problems have been minimal and somatic cell count holds at about 200,000. Use of sand as a free-stall bedding material has shown very positive results for the Holtzingers.

"But we don't want to go any farther in debt," Kevin said emphatically. "Our two-year goal is liquidating some of the poorer quality acreage into building lots to finance renovations and expansion."

A more immediate challenge claims as much of the Holtzingers attention as renovation plans. Hard-hit by the region's drought, they are assessing their feeding programs and evaluating the best use of reduced forage and grain yields.

Haylage is fed as a major part of the total mixed ration, with corn silage used as about a quarter of feed amounts. Small grain forages fill and extend shortages, with Kevin favoring oats over rye due to their heavy soils and a longer harvest window for oats. With short feedstuffs, Kevin is considering everything from cottonseed to alfalfa cubes, and hoping to someday add a commodity shed at the home facility.

"We expect to go heavy on wheat this fall," he figures. "Barley doesn't do well on our soils. We also hit oats pretty heavily and last year had some unexpectedly good oats we harvested at chin height.

"We tried 'tripper,' a blend of field peas and triticale. Concept of that is a stronger tonnage that is supposed to test up to 20 percent protein, and it can be double cropped. It looks like it's best when cut at the boot stage of the triticale; and the peas are nitrogen-fixing for the soil."

Planted March 20, and cut the last week of May, tripper may have a place in the Holtzinger's rotation. This year, though, Kevin feels the weather was just too unfavorable to give the forage blend a fair test.

To deal with the drought-induced feed shortages, the Holtzingers will cull heavily those marginal production and breeding problem cows. Calving interval is closely monitored, with the aim of cutting the present 13-month rate to 12.5 months.

Feed purchases will be watched even more closely and forage testing continued monthly. Debt reduction includes limiting purchases of equipment, and relying on repair and maintenance to keep the present machinery lineup in good operating condition.

"And we'll continue to strive to get quality premiums on our milk production," said Kevin.

Karen, who handles all the farm's accounting and record-keeping, runs computer rations regularly on their forage samplings and nutritionist recommendations. She continues to help with relief milking so their two regular milkers, who swing shift two weeks on night milking and two weeks on day, can have time off.

"We make most decisions together," Karen and Kevin said. That includes everything from financial planning to selecting breeding sires for longevity traits for more durable cows.

"And we do lean on each other," Kevin said. "If Karen wasn't interested, I don't know if I could do it."

They also try to set aside time for their three children, Ashton, 9, Shannon, 8, and Christine, 7. Shannon especially is interested in the cattle, and recently exhibited her first 4-H heifer project.

"We like what we do," Karen said, smiling. "There are acres for the kids to play on and a good feeling at things like a newborn calf getting up and looking at you."

The Holtzingers are enthusiastic about their young cooperator opportunities and hope other young couples will become more involved.

"We did really enjoy the program and would encourage anyone with the chance to participate. It's a way to meet other young couples dealing with debt load, children and cows. That opportunity is as important as the education."

State Cooperatives Council To Host Annual Meeting

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "Marketing Your Cooperative Into the Future" is the theme of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives' 1991 Annual Meeting. The conference will be held October 10-11 at the Days Inn Penn State, State College, PA.

Dr. Wayne A. Boutwell, President of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives will kick-off the event with a keynote address entitled, "Cooperatives' Role in the Global Economy." Boutwell has served as president of N.C.F.C. since 1983. He serves as a member of the board of directors for Volunteers in Overseas Cooperative Assistance, and the U.S. Overseas Cooperative Development Committee as well as the boards of Agriculture Cooperative Development International and Cooperative Development Foundation.

Following Boutwell's address, a panel of experts will share a variety of cooperative marketing principles. The panel consists of Dr. James Bierlien, professor of Agriculture Economics at Penn State University; Mr. Robert Hynes, Sales Manager-TurnKey Systems, Service Star Corporation; and Dr. Thomas Lepson, York College professor and partner in the Polk-Lepson Research Group. Presiding over the discussion will be Dr. Cathy Hamlett, Director of Penn State's Cooperative Business Education and Research Program.

Wrapping up the afternoon session will be Dr. H. Christopher Peterson, former professor of Economics and Business Administration at Juniata College, Huntingdon, PA. Dr. Peterson currently serves as Agri-Business Economist for Michigan State University where he leads the development and implementation of a new undergraduate major in agribusiness management.

A very special retirement celebration is planned for Thursday evening, October 10. Hal F. Doran, Director of Penn State's Cooperative Business Education Program, will be honored for nearly a half-century of service to the cooperative business system. A variety of activities are planned, including recognition in some unique forms.

The Friday morning session begins with breakfast speaker, Dr. Kenneth Markely, Humorist and Motivational Speaker. Following Dr. Markley's presentation entitled, "Apples of Gold," the annual business meeting will commence.

Anyone wishing further information regarding meeting activities or the retirement celebration should contact the PA Council of Cooperatives office at (814) 231-3010.

Pennsylvania Agriculture Looks Better Than Expected

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania agriculture emerged from the 1980s in better economic shape than most people realize, according to a Penn State ag economist.

"Since the farm economy hit bottom in 1986, agriculture has become one of the most vigorous and prominent growth industries in the United States," said Dr. Gregory Hanson, associate professor of agricultural economics. "From 1986 through 1990, sales of farm commodities and net farm income both rose 24 percent, and the net worth of farmers rose by nearly $200 billion in the U.S."

Hanson said the most recent statistics indicate that the growth of Pennsylvania agriculture mirrored the national trend. He said between 1986 and 1990, the net worth of Pennsylvania's farmers grew by 25 percent to about $20 billion, and their debt-to-asset ratio fell to nearly 10 percent from 16 percent.

That means for every $10 of assets owned by Pennsylvania farmers in 1990, there was only about one dollar of debt, down from $1.60 just five years ago.

Hanson attributes much of the rebound in farm income between 1987 and 1990 to farmers' efforts to control production costs. "Farm expenses in Pennsylvania rose an average of about 2 percent annually between 1985 and 1989, which was about half the rate of inflation." He said many farmers cut back on capital purchases and new borrowing to contain costs.

Also contributing to the surge in farm income in the late 1980s were a $525 million increase in livestock sales and a $100 million jump in the sale of high-value crops, such as fruits, vegetables, mushrooms, and greenhouse products.

"Although milk still accounts for 40 percent of farm sales, the Pennsylvania agricultural economy has become more diversified," said Hanson. He predicts that the state's proximity to major population centers in the east and midwest will continue to propel the growth in high-value crops and maintain the strength of the state's competitive dairy industry.

Despite recent gains, Hanson cautions that 1991 will be a difficult year for Pennsylvania's farmers. Higher fuel costs, lower dairy prices, and lower yields due to drought are putting the squeeze on agriculture. In addition, stalled international trade agreements, reductions in government subsidies, cutbacks in consumer spending, and tighter credit brought on by the recession are having an effect on the farm economy.

But, said Hanson, most of these constraints are short-term. Conservative bank lending practices, new legislation that discourages excessive expansion of farm production, and the shift away from government price supports will help farmers to develop what Hanson calls "a healthier attitude toward long-run investment and growth."

He said the go-slow incentives contained in new agricultural policies will moderate the "boom-bust" economic cycles of recent years.

Hanson cites several factors that make him bullish on the future of the state's agricultural economy: the low point in the dairy price cycle has passed, weather conditions can change rapidly, this year's low production will lead to higher prices, and international trade negotiations are being restarted.

"Slow growth, low inventories and the weak dollar will provide better balance between supply and demand in the next few years," he said. "As a result, we can expect farm incomes to improve in 1992, and to remain generally healthy during 1993 and 1994."

FLO-STAR™ claw

It All Adds Up

Bou-Matic Flo-Star™ Claw Equals Improved Udder Health, Milk Quality and Efficiency

+ Improved Udder Health - Flo-Star claw reduces liner slippage and helps prevent air from moving milk, which could be carrying bacteria, towards teats. Milk moves quickly from the Flo-Star claw without flooding and causing excessive fluctuation in vacuum. The results add up to less mastitis, healthier cows and greater profits.

+ More Efficient Milk Time - The Flo-Star claw moves milk quickly. Even the fastest milking cow can't flood this claw. Units stay on better and teatcups squawk less - this means you spend less time running around and more time milking your cows. The Flo-Star claw is lightweight and easy to handle.

+ Better Milk Quality -The Flo-Star claw is available with a vacuum shut-off valve. If a cow kicks her unit off, the valve closes automatically and cuts off the vacuum The automatic shut off keeps dirt, straw and other contaminants out of the milk.

How Many Bankers Know As Much About Farming As They Know About Finances?

At Bank of Lancaster County, one of our senior vice presidents not only helps run our bank, he also runs a successful Lancaster County farm. That's the kind of expertise and understanding you'll find from top to bottom at Bank of Lancaster County.

For more than 125 years, we've been helping our area's farmers with their banking needs. Like loans for machinery, livestock, construction, mortgages or operating expenses. Why not give Bob Badger of our Agricultural Loan Division a call at (717) 687-8691? We know all about farm financing, because we know farming.

'Seize The Day' Will Motivate Juniors At Convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The American Junior Hereford Association (AJHA) will gather its members here for its 27th annual convention November 8-10. Approximately 250 representatives from across the United States are expected to participate in the convention, themed "Seize the Day."

The agenda highlights include keynote speaker Josh Ridker of Zig Ziglar Corporation, Dallas, Tex.; the national officers election; national contests; workshops; and recognition of outstanding junior members and state associations.

New AJHA officers and directors will be elected at the annual business meeting. National directors who are completing their three-year terms are Calvin Gunter, Rogers, Texas; Michael Kelsey, Rush Springs, Okla.; and Bryan Lawrence, Coon Rapids, Minn.

Several awards and scholarships will be presented to juniors having excelled in leadership and dedication to the Hereford breed. The five recipients of the Golden Bull Achievement Award, the highest recognition bestowed upon a junior member, will be presented with a bronzed Hereford bull and $200 cash stipend from the American Hereford Auxiliary.

The auxiliary will also present the B.C. "Bud" Snidow Award. Nominated by state association advisors, the Snidow Award is presented to a junior member exhibiting accomplishments in the junior Hereford program. Two Future Cattleman Scholarship recipients will be announced and awarded a $500 scholarship. The scholarships recognize outstanding individuals active in the AJHA.

Additional recognition will be given to outstanding advisors of state junior associations and the top state junior association scrapbooks. The Membership Increase Award will be awarded to a state association having the largest increase in membership. The "Pride of the Nation" program awards state junior associations for making the greatest strides to better their organization and promote the Hereford breed.

The national public speaking contest featuring the best state speakers from across the country is planned. The photo contest will recognize the talented photographers in the AJHA.

Convention activities will be held at the Americana Hotel, Kansas City. Registration can be made by contacting the American Hereford Association, Department of Youth Activities, P.O. Box 014059, Kansas City, MO 64101, (816) 842-3757. The complete agenda is as follows:

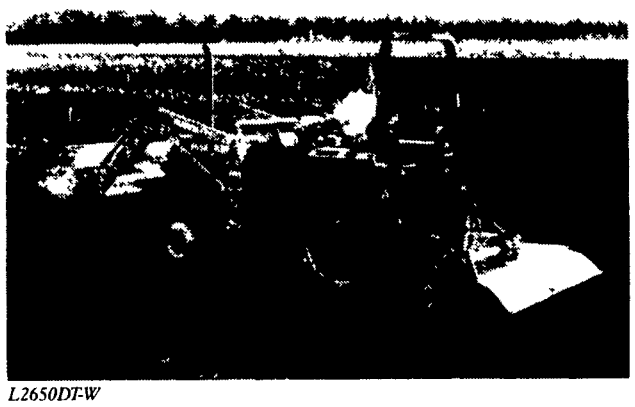
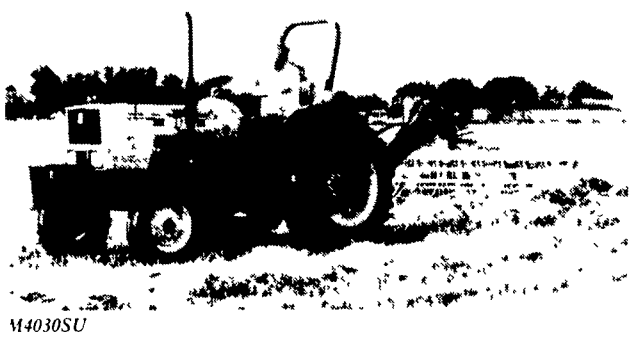
KUBOTA GIVES YOU ROOM TO GROW.

B2150HST



L2650DT-W



M4030SU

Row crops need their space. Which is why there's a Kubota to fit right into your scheme of things. Like the B2150 HST you see just above. Its compact size keeps you out of tight spots by getting you easily into them. Four wheel drive, three cylinders, power steering, and hydrostatic transmission will make light work of loading, tilling, and spraying.

Or you could be working on the L2650DT-W with Kubota's Ever Clutch, a wet clutch disc system that operates immersed in oil. Mechanical 8F/8R shuttle shift and hydrostatic power steering are standard and give smooth, dependable operation.

The utility tractor M4030SU specializes in doing just about everything. With a smooth powerful six cylinder diesel engine and 42 PTO HP, it can help with planting, cultivating, or bringing in the hay. And every Kubota lets you 3-point hitch up to a whole world of implements. Kubota-made or otherwise.

Kubota Tractor Corporation markets a full line of tractors through a nationwide network of over 1,000 dealers

Patton Receives National Award

CAIRO, N.Y. — L. Jeffrey Patton, extension marketing agent at Lehigh County Cooperative Extension, has been named a second place northeast winner in the Television Program Class of the Public Information Awards program sponsored by R.J.R. Nabisco, according to Bob Beyfuss, regional vice chairman for communications of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA).

Patton was recognized for writing and hosting a segment of "Valley Market Basket" (WLVT-TV, Channel 39), entitled "The Perose Aquaculture Story." The show featured the operators and designers of the indoor fish farm at 1425 Chew Street in Allentown.

More than 1,500 entries were received this year in the Public Information Awards Program from agents throughout the U.S.

Will NPCW, NPPC Merge?

DES MOINES, Iowa — Producer leadership of the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) and the National Pork Council Women (NPCW) have appointed a task force to look at the possibilities of integrating the two organizations in order to unify all producer efforts.

NPCW President Lorraine Harness, a producer from New Hartford, Mo., and NPPC President John Hardin, Jr., a producer from Danville, Ind., said the goal will be to maximize involvement of all pork producers, men and women, in a unified organization.

The NPCW initiated the discussions that led to appointment of the NPPC/NPCW Organization Transition Task Force. The group will be given a great degree of flexibility to allow development of the best possible plan.

Key components of the plan are expected to include grassroots producer involvement in program implementation, continued growth of education and promotion programs traditionally conducted by NPCW, and leadership/development opportunities for women. The task force will be co-chaired by Harness and Hardin.

The NPPC/NPCW Organization Transition Task Force is expected to present a recommended plan to the leadership of both organizations later this fall. The plan will be presented to state women's and producer's annual meetings throughout the coming fall and winter for input and discussions. The final decision on any transition plan will be made by the NPPC and NPCW elected delegate bodies at their respective national annual meetings next March in Atlanta, Ga.

Constructed Wetlands Meeting Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dr. Donald Hammer, a leading researcher on constructed wetlands with the Tennessee Valley Authority, will give an overview of this technology and its potential application for waste treatment on Pennsylvania farms on October 8.

The meeting will be in the basement meeting room of the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, from 7:30 p.m.-9:00 p.m.

Natural wetlands provide a number of water quality improvement functions in the environment. Constructed wetlands are man-made swamps or marshes which are designed to reproduce the same water quality improvement functions for processing municipal, industrial, or agricultural waste.

The Tennessee Valley Authority Waste Technology Program has been evaluating the technology for some time and has established a number of demonstration treatment systems.

These systems treat municipal waste, agricultural waste from a hog facility, industrial waste from a pulp manufacturer, and waste from failed home septic systems.

The advantages of these systems include low construction and operating costs, energy efficiency, simple operation, provision of wildlife habitat, and pleasing aesthetics. The disadvantages include the large land areas required, potential mosquito production, limited knowledge of how the systems function, and engineer's and regulator's lack of familiarity with the system. There is no registration charge for the meeting.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

- New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
- 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
- Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 ry - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit
Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.
* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450 00
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets
NEW price on ramps & carriers - $200 00

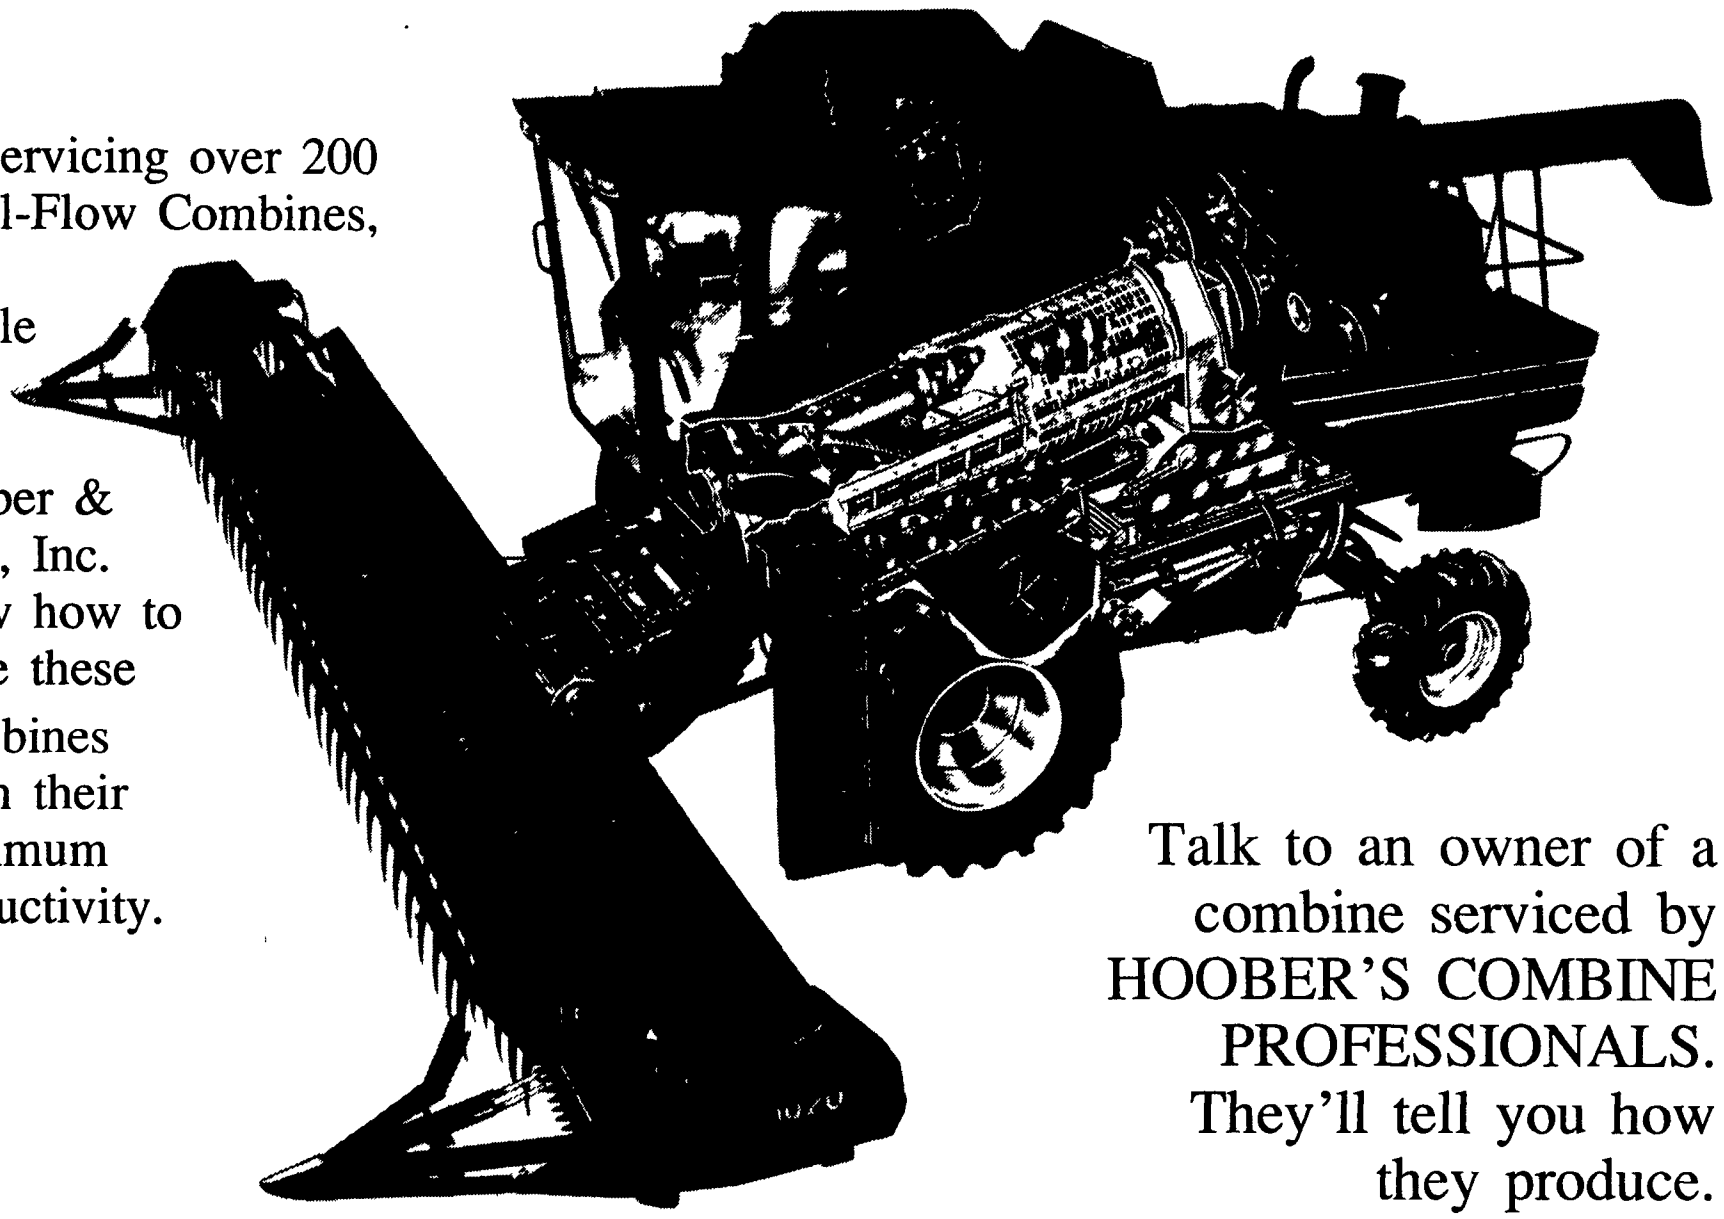
HOOBER PEOPLE MAKE AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES PRODUCE FOR YOU!



By servicing over 200 Axial-Flow Combines, The people at C.B. Hoober & Sons, Inc. know how to make these Combines reach their maximum productivity.

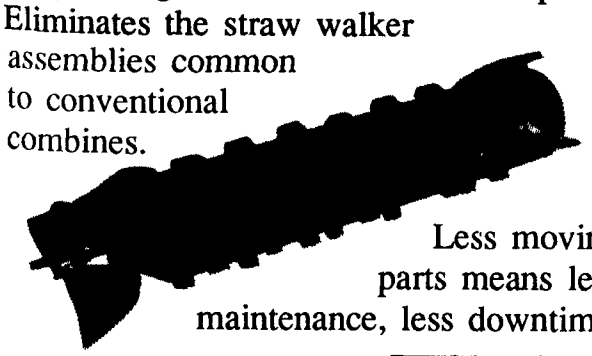
Talk to an owner of a combine serviced by HOOBER'S COMBINE PROFESSIONALS. They'll tell you how they produce.

CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO OWN AN AXIAL-FLOW FROM HOOBER?

The Reason Axial-Flow Combines Are More Productive - THE ROTOR!

The Single Rotor design is SIMPLE!

Only a single rotor to thresh and separate. Eliminates the straw walker assemblies common to conventional combines.



Less moving parts means less maintenance, less downtime.

The Single Rotor Design is HIGHER QUALITY GRAIN

Multiple threshing action of axial-flow reduces kernal damage and holds elevator dockage to a minimum

The Single Rotor Design is MORE PRODUCTIVE!

When your crops are ripe and ready to harvest, Axial-Flow allows you to move faster than with a conventional combine. The rotor's large throat means no bottlenecks up front. You'll be able to harvest at top speed for maximum productivity, even on side-hills.

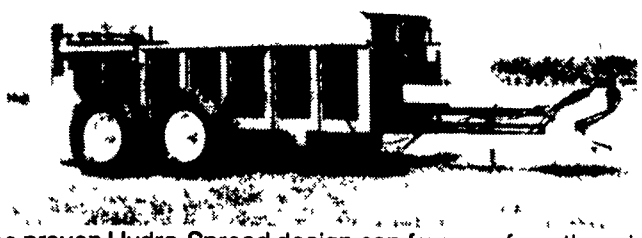
FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY



The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

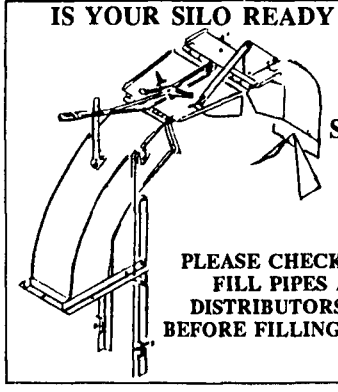
S & S SILO SERVICE

ATTENTION FARMERS
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

PROOF THAT OPTIMALLY GROWN HEIFERS ARE HEAVIER MILK PRODUCERS.

The most obvious reason for heifers to freshen on Purina's recommended 24 month/1,400 pound schedule is increased milk production in the first lactation. While both factors are important, records at the Northeast DHI Processing Center prove that weight has more influence than age. Note in the graph how production increases as body weight increases. At the 1,250 pound level, most of the improvement in milk potential has been realized. Heifers at the heaviest body weight actually show a decline in milking ability, presumably because of improper mammary development resulting from excessive growth rates.

That's all the more reason to feed those replacement calves the dependable Purina Startena Growena.
